THE EARTHQUAKE in California, following so many similar upheavals in various parts of this country and in Asia, fills with distress and sympathy every good American. It affects but a small part of the Western coast line, and, undoubtedly, with full information, will turn out to be less serious than the first agitated dispatches represent it to be.

NO ONE doubts that this misfortune will be adequately and promptly met by the resourceful courage of California's men and women. Only last Sunday, Arthur Williams, head of the great New York Edison Company, just back from California, told a gathering at the house of Judge Gary of the impression that California had made upon him.

"They are the wonder people of the world," said he. "Nothing stops them; nothing daunts them. If a mountain is in their way, they wipe it out.

"If water they need is 500 miles away, with mountains and valleys between, they bring the water to them.

"They set an example in energy, civilization, progress and development to the rest of the world. To look from San Francisco across the bay to Oakland, seeing high in the air light wires that carry light and power between the two wonderfully lighted cities, to travel the length of that magnificent coast, with its millions of intelligent, active people, and its unbelievable growth, is an inspiration to the citizenship of this country."

THOSE THAT know California know that this misfortune of a moment will be wiped away, made up and soon forgotten. It will not check California's growth by as much as an hour.

THE NEW YORK TIMES devotes part of its front page to "a third term for Coolidge."

There can't be any Coolidge third term discussion until after the President shall have been re-elected in 1928. He has been elected only once thus far. If, as is probable, he should be re-elected in 1928, that would be his second term and the right time to begin talking of a third term.

WHEN Washington was President and an aggressive editor was accusing him of royal ambition, a desire to be king, the people worried about too long tenure of office. Having got rid of an English king, they didn't want an American king called President in place of King George.

Washington answered that sufficiently when he refused to be elected more than twice.

THUS FAR President Coolidge has been elected once. And, anyhow, the United States is not worrying about a successor to him just now, but wants stable, consistent, efficient government, especially now, in the midst of various crises, financial and others, following the war.

MR. COOLIDGE'S accidental brief tenure of office following President Harding's death was not a Presidential term. He sat in the President's chair when the President died, but did not become President on his own account, not in the sense in which Washington understood the Presidency, until he was elected in November, 1924.

THIRD TERM talk will be postponed by sensible people until about 1930. Meanwhile, there is plenty of work for the people to do without worrying about distant issues. If the President carries the nation successfully through his first elected term, without serious mistakes or setbacks, he will have rendered a great service to the United States, and the people of his party, not being idiots, will ask him to take charge for four years more. Time enough after that to talk about a third term.

IN VIENNA lectures in all languages will be given by professors from all countries. From Harvard to the Sorbonne wisdom will pour into Vienna.

But all the teachers in the world will not teach Austrians as

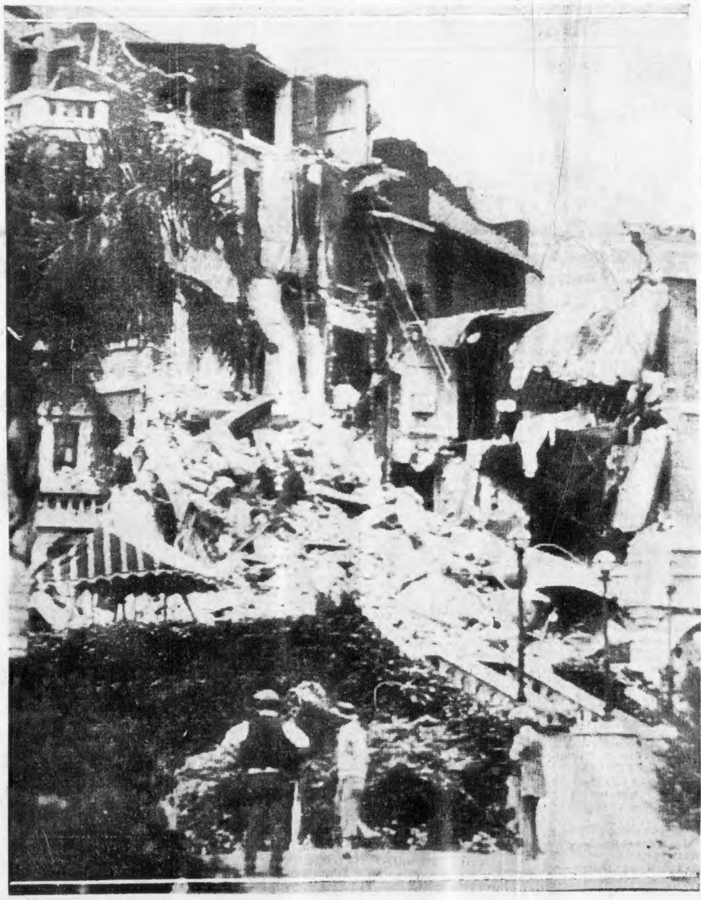
QUAKE PICTURE SENT OVER PHONE WIRES



Here is presented the first actual photograph of the ruins left by the earthquake yesterday in Santa Barbara, Calif. The picture shows what is left of the Arlington Hotel, famed on two continents. Note that flimsy glass light-globes withstood the shock while stone and brick and mortar and steel were torn and twisted by the upheaval. This photograph was made yesterday by staff photographers of International Newsreel, which holds the copyright upon it, and was sent over the telephone wires of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., to New York, where it was quickly developed, and then dispatched by specail messenger to the Boston Evening American.

NEW SHOCKS ADD TO WRECK; LOSS IS NEAR $25,000,000

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30 (I.N.S.).—Dead, eleven; missing, three; injured, seventy-five; estimated property damage, fifteen to twenty-five million dollars.

That was the earthquake toll Santa Barbara, under martial law and heavy guard to prevent looting, faced today after a night that brought new terror with continued shocks.

At 1:22 this morning another hard tremor, followed by minor shocks, was felt.

A second slight shock shook the city at 4:30 o'clock a. m.

Another slight temblor struck the city at 5:54 a. m.

The tremors early today did no great damage, merely shaking down loose bricks and stones and aroused thousands who tried to sleep in nearby hills and parks and on lawns.

Not a stone, brick, cement or stucco structure in the city of 35,000 residents is intact.

Santa Barbarans looked upon ruined avenues and boulevards, block after block.

Three houses are burned ruins and only prompt action of

INSISTS SHE IS LOTTA'S HEIR

Mrs. Ida Manning Blankenburg, who claims she is the daughter of the late Lotta Crabtree, and seeks to inherit the $3,000,000 estate left by the famous actress, arrived in Boston today to begin her fight in Suffolk Probate Court.

"I am not going to let them take away what is rightfully mine," she said to the Boston Evening American upon her arrival.

"I am determined to get what belongs to me. Lotta Crabtree was my mother and I believe I can prove it."

She immediately went into conference with Attorney Thomas J. Barry, Florian G. Arey and G. C. Spillers.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WHITE COURT TONIGHT

Plymouth, Vt., June 30 (A.P.)—President Coolidge left here today for Swampscott, Mass., assured that his father practically had recovered from an attack of illness. Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, the President planned to make the entire trip by automobile, and expected in seven hours to reach White Court.

Dr. James F. Coupal, the President's physician, remained here to attend Colonel Coolidge until all danger of a relapse is passed. He assured the President, however, that his father was making a remarkable recovery, in view of his age and weakened heart, and that there was little likelihood of a relapse.

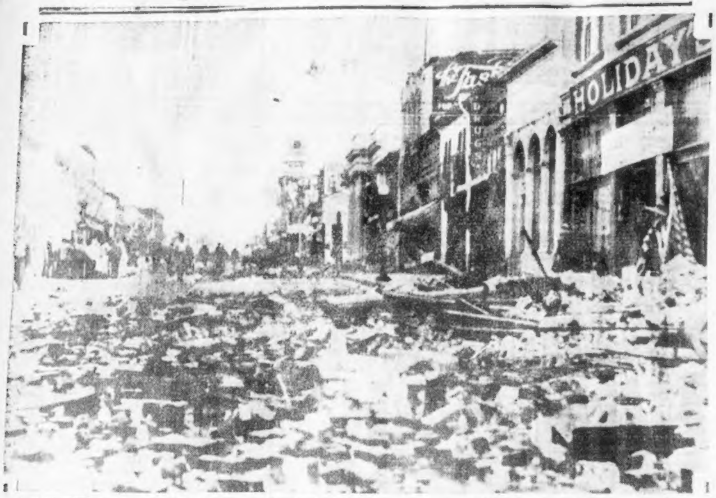
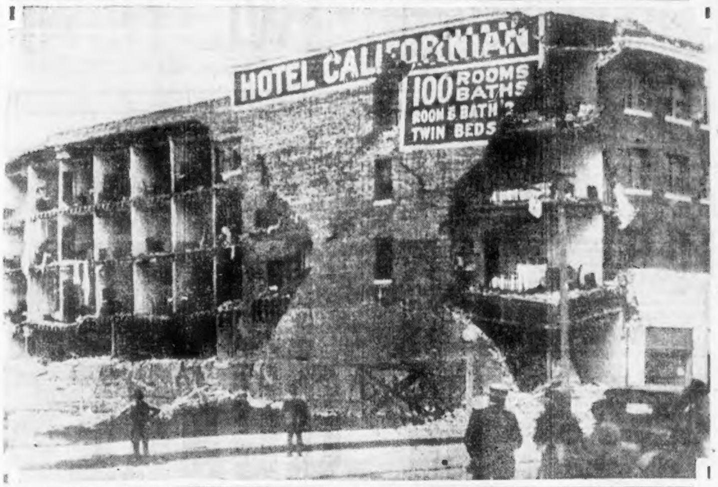
FIRST QUAKE RUINS PICTURES FLASHED TO BOSTON AMERICAN

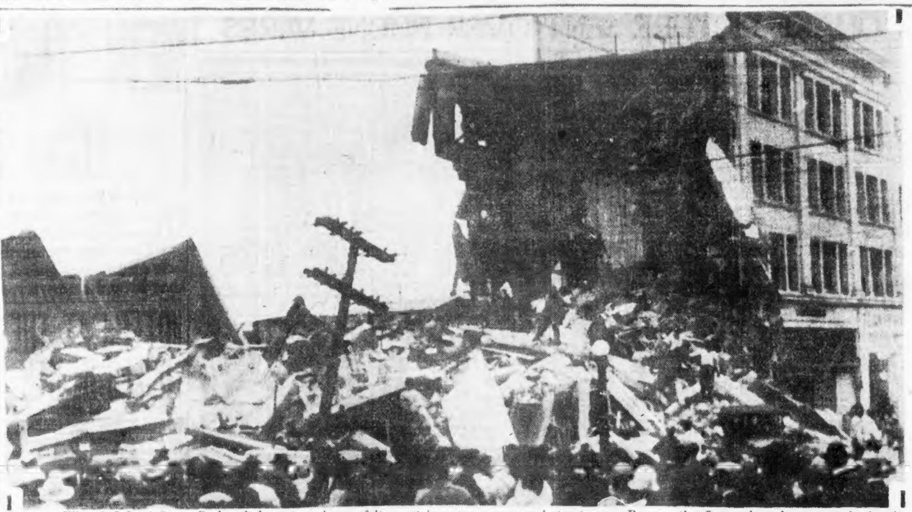


(All Photos Copyrighted International News Reel.)

This is State street, Santa Barbara's chief business thoroughfare, the debris left by the quake littering its broad expanse. Note the grim humor in the sign in the foreground. "Holiday!" More like one of Nero's Roman holidays! This picture was sent by International News Reel over the telephone wires of the American Telephone & Telegraph to New York and dispatched by special messenger to the Boston Evening American.



This is what the quake did to the California hotel. The walls just dropped away, leaving the rooms exposed to view, not unlike a trick of the stage to show interiors along with exterior views. This photograph also was telegraphed approximately 3,000 miles by International News Reel over phone wires to New York for development, then hurried to Boston.



What is left of Santa Barbara's largest and one of its most imposing commercial structures. Because the first upheaval came early in the morning, and was confined almost wholly to the business districts, the scores of persons who peopled the building in daytime were not there. The picture is of the ruins of San Marcos building. Here, too, where steel and stone were bent and broken, fragile glass escaped, as shown by the electric light globes. This photograph was sent by International News Reel also over the American Telephone & Telegraph phone wires from California.

BODY OF HUB WOMAN RESCUED FROM HOTEL WRECKAGE

firemen prevented the flames sweeping the city. All house fires are prohibited.

FIND HUB WOMAN'S BODY.

While slight tremors continued, corps of workers braved the wrecked area and recovered two bodies from the debris of the Arlington Hotel, making a total of 11 known dead.

The newly found bodies were those of B. R. Hancock, son of a Los Angeles banker, and Mrs. C. E. Perkins, of Boston, wife of a former vice-president of the C. B. and Q. railroad.

Both bodies were found under tons of huge concrete blocks which had been removed by steam shovels. The bodies were maimed almost beyond recognition.

Miss Carter, maid of Mrs. Perkins, escaped from the hotel, and is now safe, but seriously injured.

DON'T FEAR NEW QUAKE.

Workers turned their attention to the San Marcos building in an effort to uncover the body of Chappo Mastero, chief engineer of the building. He was reported buried under more than one hundred tons of rock and mortar.

After today's new shocks residents appeared to have become calloused to danger and guards were forced to use bayonets to keep crowds from passing beneath buildings with bulging sides.

The city is under martial law, soldiers and police parading in front of the ruined homes and buildings. Up the city's main avenue of business—State street—wrecked buildings are on all sides.

Virtually every fine building in Santa Barbara, with the exception of that of the Daily News, Loboro Theatre, Granada Building, the City Hall, and the Federal Building, is at least partly wrecked. Had the shake come an hour later loss of life would have been terrific.

Commercial structures leveled or damaged were the American Legion building, First National Bank, Upper Clock building, Unitarian Church, San Marcos building, two telegraph offices, two telephone buildings, City Hall, Presbyterian Church, Knights of Columbus Hall, St. Anthony's Seminary, Old Mission, Morning Press, Holiday's hardware, Howard-Canfield, Partis store, Ferguson Furniture, Carrillo Hotel, Arlington Hotel, Samarkena, California Hotel, St. Francis Hospital, Hotel Neal, Grand Hotel, recreation center, parochial schools, Moose Hall, Elks' building.

Every commercial building in State street was damaged to some extent.

All through the night, workers dug in the wrecked four-story San Marcos Building and the Arlington, where three or more bodies, including that of Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, wife of the former president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, were buried.

Beautiful Anacapa and Chapala streets did not suffer greatly, but along State street, between Sola street and the beach, great havoc was done.

The city's noted hotels and churches are greatly damaged. All of the hotels are so badly wrecked not one is habitable today.

The San Marcos Building, where two persons were killed, is leveled.

The Arlington and the New California Hotel are demolished. The Carrillo Hotel lobby is wrecked and the building cracked in many places.

The court house, hall of records and the county jail are shattered beyond repair. The few prisoners in the county jail were ordered released.

The Congregational, Unitarian, Presbyterian churches and the Church of Our Lady of Sorrows are blasted.

Caved in are the city library nd Elks' building. The front of the Elks' building is in the street.

RUIN LIKE IN WAR.

The Upham Hotel is sunk a foot in the ground. The famous Samarkan is damaged.

El Canto and El Mirasol hotels escaped serious damage. Hotel Surf is wrecked.

The Potter Theatre is in ruins.

The front of the New Virginia Hotel is in the street.

Almost every single story structure on the west side of State street for a mile distance is partially wrecked or split.

A wall of the Central Hotel fell into the street, exposing littered bedrooms. The buildings resemble shell-stormed France in war days.

Santa Barbara fire and Com[illegible] force, augmented by 150 policemen from Los Angeles, is patrolling the city.

Two United States destroyers arrived today, bringing more sailors and marines.

A systematic survey of the section hit hardest by the "slip" of Mother Earth showed that reports of the occurrence sent out from other cities of the State had been greatly exaggerated.

Train service was restored from outside the city today and it was anticipated that the automobile detours would be unnecessary within a week.

Already more than $500,000 of a $2,500,000 reconstruction fund, suggested by William Gibbs McAdoo, leading in the work of rebuilding, has been subscribed.

Halted only by the pitch darkness which fell over the city after sundown, laborers abandoned until today the task of clearing away the ruins—a task begun a few minutes after the quake.

CITY REMAINS CALM.

Never, perhaps, did a city take disaster with more stoicism and calm. There was no frenzy, no rushing about.

The city's electric plant which was destroyed, is being put into condition for service tonight. Gas had been shut off for fear of fires. Police orders forbade candles or oil lamps.

Only the flashlights of militia men, Federal reserve, police and newspapermen, allowed inside the lines of the quake area showed. The city was under semi-martial law. Orders to shoot looters on sight have been issued.

Citizens have been warned to remain at their homes. Few, however, remained indoors, camping on lawns and in yards. The memory of the morning tragedy was too close.

Most of the city of 30,000 inhabitants were asleep when the first shock came.

Not a store, in the stricken area, was permitted to reopen during the day. There was neither food nor drink for sale. Householders, apparently fearing to go into their homes, lunched on lawns, cooking their meals over improvised fires.

Red Cross stations, hastily established, the Cottage Hospital and the City Emergency Hospital, reported having given treatment to 150 persons within two hours after the quake. It was said the majority of these suffered but minor injuries. Several score others suffered cuts and bruises.

The Red Cross outlined plans for feeding all persons who applied for aid.

COOKED FOODS SOUGHT.

While Mayor C. M. Andea expressed the belief Santa Barbara should care for itself without the aid of outside doctors or nurses, he directed an appeal to Mayor G. Cryer of Los Angeles, asking that milk and cooked foods be sent to the city today.

At the same time, Mayor Andea warned the curious against seeking to enter Santa Barbara, requesting that Los Angeles police be posted on the Ventura highway to turn back motorists. None without business will be permitted to enter the city, the mayor announced.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California also issued a warning against efforts of motorists to reach the city. Ventura boulevard, for many miles, is badly torn, and in places the roadbed has dropped.

On the east side of the city where the waters from Sheffield Reservoir, which went out with the first shock, rushed down toward the sea many small houses were swept away. In the lower city, near the ocean, water-mains burst and the district, for a time was flooded.

WIRES AGAIN WORKING.

There was no fire. Only two small blazes broke out during the day. Both were put under immediate control. Firemen patrolled with the military guards throughout the entire city.

Wire communication, which was completely disorganized with the first shock, is being restored rapidly. The exchange of the Pacific Telephone Company was included among the buildings left in almost complete ruins. Operators stuck to their posts until it was learned that wires were down in all directions. Telephone poles snapped off as the quake struck. The Western Union, rushing line crews from Los Angeles, is busy repairing great damage done to their lines along the entire affected area.

HUB SOCIETY WOMAN DEAD IN QUAKE

A prominent Boston woman, Mrs. Edith Forbes Perkins of No. 223 Commonwealth avenue, was killed in yesterday's earthquake in Santa Barbara, Cal.

Mrs. Perkins was the daughter of Commodore R. B. Forbes of Milton and the widow of Charles Eliot Perkins, for many years president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad.

She was buried in the ruins of the Arlington Hotel, where she was a guest. Her body was recovered today.

Miss Jennie Carberry of Cambridge, secretary to Mrs. Perkins and a maid escaped, but the maid, Miss Carter, was injured.

The body of Mrs. Perkins was taken today to the Rosedel cemetery, Los Angeles, to be cremated.

Mrs. Perkins was a sister of J. Murray Forbes, who is at present at his Summer home at Dark Harbor, Me., a cousin of J. Malcolm Forbes of Milton, and an aunt of Misses Dorothy and Mary Bowditch Forbes. Mrs. Perkins' children are Mrs. Robert F. Herrick, Robert Forbes Perkins of Framingham, Mrs. Edith Cunningham of Santa Barbara, Mrs. William Hooper of Manchester and Charles E. Perkins of Burlington, Ia.

Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. William Ford, former residents of Brockton, who have been living in Santa Barbara for the past twenty-five years are anxiously awaiting some word from the Fords.

LOOTERS PROWL IN QUAKE RUINS

Santa Barbara to Rebuild City Better Than Ever

SPIRIT OF FOUNDERS RULES

All Classes Unite to Raise Fine New Community Out of Quake Ruins

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30 (I. N. S.)—The spirit of the Franciscan friars who founded this city in 1781 rose to new heights today.

While the dust was unsettled in its earthquake shaken streets, while bricks still fell from its historic missions and noted hotels, and while earth tremors continued, Santa Barbara prepared today to build a new and more beautiful city.

With the same spirit with which was builded a new Johnstown, a new San Francisco and a new Galveston, Santa Barbarans pledged themselves to build again and better.

TO GO "THE LIMIT."

In the shadow of the Casa de la Guerra, the historic patio of which Richard Dana told in his famous "Two Years Before the Mast," the city's leading citizens gathered under an ancient pepper tree and arranged to "back to the limit" the new city to come from the wrecked buildings and streets of the "city that was."

From the old mission, built in 1786, the best preserved of all California's old missions, to the new California Hotel, opened last week, there is ruin in Santa Barbara. But from these scenes the city turned its eyes.

In alleys and on brick piles in the streets architects spread out plans and designs.

From the suburb of Montecito, where millionaires' lawns and polo fields were strewn with debris, to the humble old Spanish, Mexican and Chinese sections in the heart of the city, buildings, homes, grounds and streets were destroyed.

BLUE BOOK OF WEALTH.

Like a blue book of wealth and social power read the list of damaged Montecito homes, including those of Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Jr., formerly Lolita Armour of Chicago; Mrs. Harry French Knight, widow of Hobart Moore, the "wheat cornerer"; Mrs. Henry E. Bothin, San Francisco ;F. F Peabody of war fame, and his wife, formerly Kathleen Burke, the war worker; William H. Bliss, New York; Robert Wood Bliss , minister to Sweden; David Gray, Detroit, auto king; Davis E. Jones, Chicago; William G. McAdoo, Los Angeles; Walter E. Hodges, president of the Santa Fe Railway; C. K. G. Billings of race track lore; George Owen Knapp, Chicago millionaire, and Mrs. Colin Campbell, Washington, D. C., beauty.

In the warmth of the sunny California morning there gathered at the old Franciscan mission the rich and poor to discuss plans. There were no tears.

[illegible] from a doorway in the ruins of the old mission came Father Superior Augustine to give his blessing and to ask God to guide his flock in their new work.

Elks Send $5,000 in Plane for Relief in Quake Area

Los Angeles, June 30 (Universal).—Los Angeles Lodge No. 99, B. P. O. E., today dispatched an airplane from Cloverfield, under direction of Lieutenant Ralph Perkins, to take $5,000 to the relief committee of Santa Barbara Elks' Lodge. The money will be distributed among the poor and used to alleviate conditions generally.

ANCIENT STRUCTURE DAMAGED

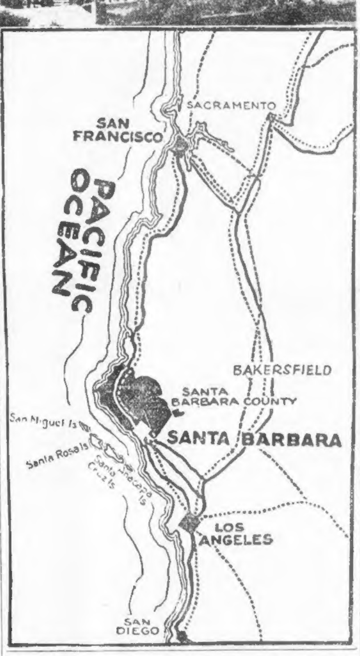
The historic Santa Barbara Mission, which withstood the ravages of time through the centuries, is reported cracked and twisted as a result of Monday's earthquake. Below is a map showing Santa Barbara's location on the coast in relation to San Francisco and Los Angeles.



TRIO CAUGHT IN UPHEAVAL TELL EXPERIENCE

Santa Barbara, Calif., June 30 (Universal)—A graphic story of the earthquake was told by three eyewitnesses.

They are Mrs. Albert Reiss of No. 1218 Tremaine street, Los Angeles, and her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Markell Browne of San Francisco, who were driving from the northern metropolis to Los Angeles and had just arrived in Santa Barbara when the first shock came.

All narrowly escaped death from flying bricks or falling walls, and the feminine members of the party are still suffering from the shock. Mr. Browne said:

"We stopped the car in front of a cafeteria, intending to breakfast there. Mrs. Reiss and my wife had just stepped out of it when the first tremor came. There was a noise like the sound of great guns in action. A moment later I felt my feet apparently going in opposite directions, while the street under them cracked and billowed; there was the crash of falling walls, the sound of screams and minor explosions as water and gas mains cracked and broke and water gushed up through the crevices in the streets.

ROOF CRASHES IN.

"Protecting the women as best I could, the three of us found a spot in the centre of the main thoroughfare. We had been there but a moment when the whole roof of the cafeteria crashed in. Then came a hail of bricks.

"Terrified residents poured out of the buildings, some apparently stunned, and others scarcely awake. Buildings fell in as we watched. The air was filled with dust and the early morning sun was obscured until it was almost as dark as night."

Mrs. Reiss' version was equally as thrilling. She said:

"I counted seven distinct shocks. The first one was the worst.

"Mr. Browne looked at his watch as we were getting out of the machine. It was exactly 6:45 A. M. Immediately behind our car was another, included in the party were two men and an elderly woman. She cried out repeatedly for her father.

"We got into the car and maneuvered our way between fallen electric cables and telephone wires to another street. We passed the Californian Hotel. Two of its sides had fallen. The floors were tilted and we could see into every room.

MOTHERS SAVE BABIES.

"Guests who were asleep were rolled to the floor and some of them had fallen to the ground. Frame buildings were twisted. Brick walls were falling right and left. The dust was so thick it was hard to breathe. The air was warm and sticky.

"I saw women half clad running through the streets, clasping babies.

Cloudburst Blocks Traffic With Tons of Debris

Bakersfield, Cal., June 30.—A cloudburst in Tejon pass, forty-four miles south of here on the Ridge route, delayed all traffic nearly three hours.

Tons of debris were washed over the mountain highway, and a crew of fifteen men with trucks and scrapers was necessary to open up a one-way passage.

No lives were lost.

LEAKS IN OCEAN CAUSE QUAKE, IS CLAIM

New York, June 30 (A.P.).—Experts were divided today as to the cause of the Santa Barbara earthquake. Ocean leakage, accumulated strain on the earth's crust and extreme hot weather were among the causes assigned.

There was also disagreement as to whether here was any relation between the tremors in Montana and those which laid Santa Barbara in ruins.

Dr. Herman L. Fairchild, professor emeritus of geology at the University of Rochester, N. Y., said that the Montana tremor, traveling underground, might have touched off stored up strains in Southern California. He said that the Montana tremor might also lead to further shocks in the western mountain States in the next few days.

The view that the Montana and California quakes were unrelated is held by William Bowie, chief or the division of geodesy of the coast and geodetic survey at Washington.

"The earthquake at Santa Barbara is the same old story, an ocean leakage," said Professor T. J. See of the Mare Island observatory at San Francisco.

SANTA BARBARA CHURCH, IN RUINS, LOOTED

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30 (A.P.).—Looters plied their trade amid the earthquake ruins of Santa Barbara during the night. Numerous reports of their depredations came from officers of national guardsmen and naval reservists who threw a network of patrols over the business district during the dark hours.

Guadalupe Catholic Church was one of the principal sufferers. Here, the police report said, the altar vessels of gold and silver were stolen.

Two supposed thieves were surprised in the ruins of the Arlington Hotel, but managed to evade arrest.

Other minor cases of theft also were reported, including pilfering from small shops along the waterfront.

During the night upwards of 200 uniformed police arrived from Los Angeles to aid the local militia in patrolling the streets, which were closely cordoned from sunset to sunrise. Shortly after 4 o'clock the battleship Arkansas, Captain Frank Lyon commanding, dropped anchor in the harbor and began landing shore patrols of bluejackets to aid in maintaining order.

Other assistance also came from Los Angeles, including a trainload of supplies, several trucks of fire apparatus and a powerful electric generator and portable lights from the Famous Players-Laskey studio at Hollywood, which was used to illuminate the ruins which were being combed for bodies of possible victims.

GUARDS REORGANIZE.

The landing of the first forces from the U. S. S. Arkansas was a signal for the reorganization of the guards about the quake numbed city. Thirty-five members of the ship's company came ashore at daybreak, among them a land radio outfit in command of Radio Gunner C. S. Denton, which immediately established a plant for communication between the shore forces and Captain Frank Lyons, commanding the battleship.

Chief of Police Deagrandchamp of Santa Barbara, announced that the police and sheriff forces of Santa Barbara and Los Angeles combined, numbering 450 men, would be reorganized for more efficient guard duty at once.

At daylight a unit of Red Cross nurses and rehabilitation experts arrived from San Francisco under the direction of J. W. Richardson, relief organizer, and Dorothy Ledyarde, director of nursing activities in the Pacific division of the Red Cross.

RED CROSS AT WORK.

Announcements were made that a meeting of all Red Cross workers in the stricken area would be held at once to plan a more efficient relief organization.

The battleship Arkansas experienced some difficulty in feeling her way into the harbor before daylight. The lighthouse had been cut down by the quake.

Ranchers reported heavy landslides across the highways fifteen miles north of here in the direction of Paradise Camp in the Santa Ynez Valley. They said, however, that no other damage had occurred in that section.

In this territory is the Gibraltar dam, source of Santa Barbara's water supply, which earlier reports yesterday said had been demolished, but which was found later to be intact.

Earth's "Dance" Centre Was in Pacific, Priest Avers

Washington, June 30 (I.N.S.)—The center of the earthquake which wrecked Santa Barbara was far out in the Pacific ocean, according to calculations made today by Father Francis Anthony Tondorff, seismologist at Georgetown University.

Father Tondorff said the shocks, which were felt in California and registered elsewhere in the United States, caused the earth to "dance." The tremors recorded here were said to have been the strongest ever received from such a great distance. It was explained that the vertical motion was responsible for most of the damage.

The horizontal motion here registered around seven millimeters, compared with 140 millimeters for the vertical motion.

Father Tondorff thought the shaking of Santa Barbara was a continuation of the Montana quake.

Father Tondorff said there was no danger of an earthquake in the eastern part of the United States for 100 years.

Mountains Back of Santa Barbara Are "Growing" Kind

Los Angeles, June 30 (A.P.)—Which of several faults known to exist in the region of Santa Barbara caused the destructive earthquake was the subject of speculation today among seismologists.

"The mountain range paralleling the coast and lying back of Santa Barbara is rising," said Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Southern California chapter of the Seismological Society of America.

"In the course of great lapses of time, as the ranges rise, the strata break and great fractures of faults occur. Same extend many miles, 100 or more.

"There is a great fault parallel to the coast and between Santa Barbara and the range. It is believed there is another large fault in the deep sea basin in the Santa Barbara channel between the mainland and Santa Cruz Island, parallel to the coast. Between these two and between the coast and back fault are two or three smaller faults running in the same general direction."

dicated that Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, widow of the late Congressman, would be returned the victor over former Governor Eugene N. Foss.

Mrs. Rogers said she was confident she would win by an overwhelming majority. "I am not a bit nervous over this election. I slept well last night and when I got up this morning I felt sure that by midnight tonight I would be informed officially that I am to succeed my husband."

Mrs. Rogers was accompanied to the polling booth by her campaign manager, Charles A. Stevens, and by Postmaster Zavier DeLisle, at one time secretary to the Congressman.

The polls in Lowell will close at 8 p. m. and the result will be known by midnight.

RUM PROBERS GIVEN DAY AT SALISBURY

The federal jury in the Salisbury Beach rum conspiracy case was taken to the beach today to view the scenes of the alleged conspirators' operations. Judge James A. Lowell, District Attorney Harold P. Williams, with his assistants, Henry S. MacPherson and Edward B. Hale, Asa P. French, Matthew L. McGrath and other defense counsel, court officers and others, accompanied the jury. They went to Newburyport by train and from there to Salisbury Beach by motor coaches. The trial will be resumed in the Federal Court on Wednesday.

STUDENTS ARE HELD AS THIEVES

Salem, June 30.—Eight Beverly trade school boy students, alleged to belong to an organized gang of department store thieves, were captured in raids by Lieutenant Pelletier and Sergeant Murray of the Salem police department.

A large amount of stolen property was recovered.

The youths range from fourteen to eighteen years old and, according to the police, have robbed Lynn, Beverly, Salem and Boston department stores of goods worth thousands of dollars.

Already, following confessions of thefts by some of the boys, the police say they can account for larcenies involving two thousand dollars, and before the investigation is completed they expect to be able to locate more stolen property.

Given information that department store merchandise was being sold by boys through "fences" in this city, Lieutenant Pelletier and Sergeant Murray started an investigation several days ago. Several places of doubtful repute were watched.

Learning that wearing apparel was being taken into a house on Prince street, watch was centred on the street and boys were seen entering one of the residences.

DETROIT'S PUBLIC-OWNED LINE $3,185,227 SHORT

Detroit, June 30 (A.P.)—A deficiency of $3,185,227 is shown in a report of the financial condition of the Detroit Street Railways, made to Mayor J. W. Smith. The report surprised city officials, in view of the fact that for several years reports have been made monthly purporting to show that the lines were making money under municipal control.

MADE PLUCKY FIGHT TO HOLD THUG

Miss Margaret Hanley, who lives with her parents at No. 94 Calumet street, Roxbury, believes that "bad men" should be taken care of by the police. So when she awoke today to find a strange man looking at her, she grabbed him and held on. The thug was too powerful, however, and escaped. After he had gone head-first out the window, Miss Hanley noted that her $750 engagement ring was still on her dresser.

also representing the government, held at Young's Hotel with representatives of employers and employes.

Mr. Wood stated that both sides had accepted an invitation for an investigation of the underlying causes of the strike, and that there would be no walkout pending this action. He said a small technicality was being ironed out, and that a statement with perhaps more details, would be issued later in the day.

It was understood that the Federal representatives had made suggestions to both sides of the controversy which they hoped would be accepted. Washington has been asked by wire for the appointment of commissioners to investigate the strike causes.

STATE BOARD ACTIVE.

Meantime, the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, at a meeting in the State House, was debating the question of taking a hand in the attempt to avert the strike.

The board has the power to summon witnesses, papers and books, the members being associate commissioners of the Department of Labor and Industries.

They are Edward Fisher of Lowell, chairman; Samuel Ross of New Bedford and Herbert P. Wasgatt of Everett. At headquarters of the Building Trades Employers' Association it was said an investigation was welcomed.

SOME CONTRACTORS NOT HIT.

A number of the contractors have granted the increased wages demanded by the laborers and these will not be affected by the strike. A majority of the larger contractors, however, are members of the Building Trades Employers' Association and this organization is maintaining a solid front and is preparing to fight it out with the unions.

The situation as regards a strike was reviewed by E. A. Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the United Building Trades' Council, in the following letter sent to the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association. The letter said, in part:

"Gentlemen:

"Your letter of June 26, 1925, was presented to a meeting of United Building Trades Council held on same date, and the sentiment of our meeting resolved itself into expressions of regret that your association assumes the attitude it does, and disregards the statement and request issued by the council under date of June 23, 1925. Portions of your June 2 6letters were criticized, and it has been proven to the satisfaction of the council that your letter is a gross and extreme misrepresentation of facts surrounding agreement negotiation, understanding of so-called peace pact, and existing trade agreements now in effect.

GIRL IN BATTLE WITH STRANGE MAN IN ROOM

by her cries, took up the chase, but in vain.

It was late when Miss Hanley retired, for a member of the family had been in an auto accident and his recital of his experience had kept the family up until long after their usual bedtime.

It was not many hours after retiring that the presence of someone in her room brought her to wakefulness. Believing it was her father, who rises early, she gave the dim figure no thought. When she came to full wakefulness, however, she saw a strange man beside her bed.

With rare courage, the girl shot out her hand and gripped his clothing. The man struggled and Miss Hanley, aroused to battle, was dragged to a sitting position, still hanging on.

With a powerful lurch the intruder broke her grip and dove out the open window.

Another occupant of the house, who sleeps on a back porch during the Summer, made a futile attempt to head him off—and then he was gone.

departure, the President found his father, who submitted to an operation Sunday, sitting up and in excellent spirits. The eighty-year-old patient insisted that he would be all right again in a day or two, and told his son and daughter-in-law not to worry.

JOHN DOING CHORES.

John, son of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, remained here to be with his grandfather, and do the chores around the place. Before leaving, the President took a last look at the shingles he was stacking and gave him some instructions about work he thought should be done.

Before making their departure, the President and Mrs. Coolidge visited the cemetery where their younger son, Calvin, was buried just a year ago. Earlier in the morning they had walked down the road to the graveyard, half a mile from Colonel Coolidge's home.

The motor caravan left here on the road which would take it through Woodstock, Vt., then into southern New Hampshire.

The sun, which was shining after four days of intermittent rain, and a sharp cool wind, was rapidly drying the muddy roads which have been next to impassable.

TO BE IN CAMBRIDGE.

One of the reasons for a quick return to Massachusetts was the President's engagement to deliver an address Friday at Cambridge at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Washington taking over command of the Continental army.

The President is anxious to get back to Swampscott, for when he rushed here by automobile and special train no effort was made to transfer the executive offices from Lynn, and the President is now almost completely out o ftouch with Washington.

TULSA WOMAN INSISTS LOTTA WAS MOTHER

planning the legal moves for the court battle tomorrow.

Mrs. Blankenburg is a short and rather plump woman of forty-six years. She has hair of a natural henna color.

She left her home in Tulsa, Okla., last Saturday and has been traveling continually since then. En route she went to Lincoln, Neb., and was joined there by John William Crabtree, whom she brought here as a witness.

John W. Crabtree is sixty-nine years old. He formerly lived at Crabtree Ford, Mo., where he declares Lotta often visited. There Mrs. Blankenburg was reared with himself and his brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Blankenburg has four grown-up children, three sons and a daughter. She will take thes tand herself in Probate Court tomorrow before Judge Prest, tot ry to prove her relationship in one of the most sensational claims ever made here in a will contest.

Until Mrs. Blankenberg made her claim a few months ago, no one suspected that Lotta Crabtree had been married and now hundreds of friends of the actress in Greater Boston are awaiting with interest the story to be told by the Tulsa woman.

Flywheel Bursts, Rips Into House Across Street

Lowell, June 30.—A flywheel in the Whitall Manufacturing Company's plant burst and broke the legs of William Snow, the engineer, today.

Flying fragments went in all directions, one weighing 400 pounds landing in a house across the street.

The wheel in its rear wrecked the engine room, tore up about 200 feet of flooring, and finally toppled onto the engineer.

LAST DAY TO GET IN CENSUS FIGURES

Today is the last day for city and town officials to file census returns. Returns placed in the mails or with express companies prior to 5 p. m. will be counted under a ruling of Secretary of State Cook.

The census this year is being taken by local authorities, rather than by the State, and many local executives are showing dissatisfaction with the reports.

35-MILE CLIP, OR GET OFF R. I. HIGHWAYS

Providence, June 30 (A.P.)—Thirty-five miles an hour on heavily traveled traffic arteries throughout Rhode Island, or get off the road, will be an order enforced by the newly-created State police force here, Colonel E. St. J. Chaffee announced today, following a conference of police executives from practically every city and town.

The conference decided that this rate is "safe and sane" with competent drivers under proper conditions.

Rhode Island roads have cost the people of the State millions of dollars, the State police commander pointed out, and are too expensive to be cluttered up with traffic moving at twelve or fifteen miles an hour. If slow speed is permitted, he predicted, the State will be obliged to double the number of its roads in order to accommodate traffic.

The conference voted to ban one-armed driving, one-light operating and the overloading of passenger cars.

MAYOR QUINN CALLS 'STOP' IN ROW

Determined That Things Shall Run Smoothly in Cambridge "Day of Days"

All the diplomacy that Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge can muster is being employed in the seclusion of his private office today in an effort to prevent internal dissension from interfering with the success of Friday's celebration which will mark the 150th anniversary of Washington's taking command of the Continental army.

President Coolidge is to be the big attraction at the celebration.

The dissension has broken out over the question of who shall occupy the space in front of the presidential reviewing stand.

John B. Whoriskey, director of music in the Cambridge public schools declares the space belongs to the chorus of 800 school children who will sing for the President.

Captain Francis J. Good and Miss Leslie W. Hopkinson, in charge of the pageant that will depict Washington taking command of the troops, insist that the space in front of the Presidential stand be reserved for the presentation of the pageant.

The two forces have locked horns and Mayor Quinn, who has taken it upon himself to iron out the trouble, is meeting with the leaders of both factions in his office, today in an effort to reach some conclusion that will be satisfactory all around.

Director Whoriskey insists that the childish voices will never reach the ears of the President if the 800 children are moved away from directly in front of the stand. He also declares that from the time the plans for the celebration were first started the children have been promised this place of honor and the city cannot afford to go back on its word.

Miss Hopkinson, on the other hand, insists that if the historic pageant cannot be [illegible] front of the President's stand, that the guest of honor will be unable to witness it, as to give it to the left of the stand, in the only other available space, would be to take it almost completely out of the line of vision of those in the stand.

The matter threatened to disrupt the last meeting of the parade committee prior to the celebration. Both sides remained firm and would not give in or show any spirit of compromise.

Mayor Quinn expressed himself as being inclined toward the side of the school children in the controvery, as the impressions created on their mind by the celebration will live with them throughout life.

The mayor is in conference today with Superintendent of Schools Michael E. Fitzgerald and T. Harrison Cummings, chairman of the pageant committee. Those who profess to know declare the school childen will emerge from the controversy victorious.

TWO CAUGHT IN BACK BAY IN ALLEGED STOLEN AUTO

Two men in an alleged stolen automobile, were captured by the Back Bay police after a chase today, near Massachusetts and Huntington avenues. They gave their names as William J. Whalen, twenty, of Timson street, Lynn, and Arthur Gosselil, twenty, of Franklin street, Lynn.

According to the police, the auto is owned by Melville A. Battis, of Halrock street, Atlantic, which was stolen from Dorchester avenue on June 24. The original number plates were missing, the police said, and the plates owned by a Cambridge garage were substituted. The men were locked up in the Lagrange street station. They said the automobile had been loaned to them.

GIRLS VANISH; THOUGHT TO BE RUNAWAYS

Theresa Manzola Had Sought Quiet a Year Ago; Gone With Chum Now

Theresa Manzola, the Boston-bred girl who found the speed and wickedness of the great city more than she could stand a year ago and took French leave, to hide in Nova Scotia, has run away again.

With her, the police believe, is Dorothy Davis, a fifteen-year-old chum, whom Theresa may have converted to the gospel of the open spaces and the simple life.

Miss Davis lived with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Davis, in Mattapan. The Manzola girl has been living with her people at No. 9 Collins street, Mattapan.

The Davises are frantic with anxiety. Mr. Davis has not worked for several days. Mrs. Davis is on the verge of nervous prostration.

Some nights ago Miss Davis and Miss Manzola went to Revere with three young men.

When the girls did not return that night, Mr. and Mrs. Davis began making inquiries. The boys said they had left them in Revere.

The Manzola girl, it is alleged, told the boys she and Dorothy were going to a camp in Billerica.

Miss Davis is large for her fifteen years. She is a blonde, 5 feet 4 inches in height, and vivacious.

Early last year Theresa Manzola and Vivian Ballard both living in Mattapan, and both fifteen, vanished from their homes. For a time there was a cry of abduction; then it became apparent that the girls had gone away voluntarily.

After weeks of anxiety they were found living quiet, secure lives with married friends of the Ballard girl near Sydney, N. S.

Theresa Manzola's explanation of their flight, given after she had been brought back to Mattapan, was somewhat original. She said the bright lights hurt her eyes; that the wickedness of Boston, and its speed, dazzled and annoyed her.

So, when she learned that Vivian was planning an unauthorized trip to Nova Scotia to see her friends, she went along.

'NOT GUILTY' IS QUINN'S PLEA

Salem, June 30.—Former Chief of Police William L. Quinn, former Patrolman Frank Prideaux, Jr., and S. Blaine Kehoe, all of Swampscott, with Patrick A. McDonnell of Brookline and Harry Brown of Lynn were before Jude Quinn today and pleaded not guilty to indictments charging them with bribery.

They were held in $2,500 each for the September term of the Superior Court, all furnishing bail except Prideaux, whose bondsman failed to qualify.

McDonnell and Brown, who are charged with bribing the police officers in connection with rum-running at Swampscott, were represented by John P. Feeney, and Prideaux by George W. Howe of Lynn. All are facing trial on similar charges in the United States District Court. The indictments against them were returned yesterday.

NO MORE RAIN IN SIGHT, SAYS OFFICIAL FORECASTER

"Oh, it ain't a-gonna rain no mo'," sang Acting Forecaster Theodore Bridges of the Weather Bureau today as he scanned the telegraphic reports that came ticking in over the special wires from all parts of the country.

The forecast for today and Wednesday is fair, continued moderate temperatures, with light westerly winds.

The rainfall from 8 a. m. Monday until the same hour today was 1.11 inches, making an excess for the month of nearly an inch and a half. This went a long way to make up the shortage of the earlier months of the year. Last evening one shower gave Boston a quarter of an inch of rain in five minutes, between 6:45 and 5:50 o'clock. Another beginning at 8:40 p. m. yielded a half-inch in fifteen minutes. These two showers accounted for two-thirds of the total rainfall for the twenty-four hours.

BRITISH KILL MANY CHINESE BANDITS

Hong Kong, June 30 (A.P.)—An armed river patrol launch of the British government, protecting shipping in the West river near here today, met a large body of brigands cruising toward Kongmoon. The British opened fire on the bandits, killing many and dispersing the rest.

Seven American missionaries returning by rail from Shicow, Kwangtung province, reported they were met by disorderly mobs at Wongsha and Canton, but arrived at Hong Kong safely.

Two American missionaries reported they were held up on their way from Lupa to Canton by bandits. They demanded $1,000, but took $200 which they found on the missionaries.

CANADIAN IMPORTS FROM U. S. DECLINE $72,000,000

Ottawa, June 30.—Canadian purchases in the United States again show a decline. In twelve months ending May 31 imports from the United States were $511,000,000, a drop of $72,000,000 as against the year ending May 31, 1924. Exports to the United States were $523,000,000, a decline of $5,000,000 from the year previous. Canadian purchases in the United Kingdom were $15?,000,000, practically the same as for the year previous.

TREASURE HUNTERS NOW CLOSE TO $4,000,000

New York, June 29 (A.P.)—The two trawlers Foam and Spray, which slipped out of New York harbor three weeks ago on a $4,000,000 treasure hunt, backed by a group of wealthy sportsmen, have accomplished the first part of their mission, it was announced today. A diver sent down from one of them has located the treasure ship Merida.

The next step will be to cut through the iron walls of the storeroom and bring up nearly thirty tons of gold and silver bullion.

HEAD OF K. OF C. BEARS POPE'S BENEDICTION

Rome, June 30 (A.P.).—The Pope today received James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, in private audience and imparted to him an apostolic benediction, which the pontiff also extended to all the members of the Knights of Columbus and their families.

Mr. Flaherty received the congratulations of the Pope, after reporting the progress made by the Knights of Columbus in their work in the United States and also in Rome.

SETS RECORD IN CLIMB OF MOUNT EDITH CAVELL

Montreal, June 30 (I.N.S.)—[illegible] a new record for climbing Mount Edith Cavell, more than [illegible] feet in height, Heinrich Fuhrer and Hans Kohler, Swiss guides stationed at Jasper Park Lodge, climbed to the peak of the mountain and returned to their quarters at the lodge before dark the same evening, according to a telegram received at the headquarters of the Canadian National Railways.

The climb of Mount Cavell has previously taken most of two days.

much as the war taught them in ashort time.

War is the great educator. It tecahes men what they most need to know, namely, that for human beings to cut each other's throats is not profitable, does not help victor or vanquished.

SAD HOURS in Wall Street yesterday when call money, with which men speculate, went to 6 per cent., highest price since 1923. It is all right for business men to pay 6 per cent. or more, all right for a railroad to pay 6 per cent. and a good fat commission for a loan. But Wall Street likes cheap money and worries when it doesn't get it.

The worries of the Street are sometimes the opportunity of the wise man. Many things are selling too cheap on that list of stocks, but you cannot identify them by guessing. Keep away from gambling.

FLIERS for the Navy will map out the oil shale reserves in the United States, starting with the mountains of Colorado.

The oil shale in that extraordinarily rich and fertile State holds in its stony embrace an amount of oil greater than all that the world has used up to date.

Science some day will learn how to extract that oil economically. Then the oil problem will be solved for a few generations more.

SUN SMILES AS 'BABY SHIP' SAILS

The Boston Floating Hospital "Mercy Ship" to hundreds of Boston babies, opened its season today with a trip down the harbor. Every cot on the boat had a "tenant," some baby whom the doctors had decided needed the health-giving sun-cure which is the principal treatment. Here are two "Kiddies" that saw the camera of the Boston Evening American. Charles Panto is holding his little brother "Joe," while Benny Selvetel is wondering what's next.

NEW TRIAL ASKED FOR IN R. I. "DIVORCE MILL"

Providence, R. I., June 30.— John J. Fitzgerald, counsel for Leonard W. Horton and Frances P. Dougherty, involved in the alleged Rhode Island "divorce mill" scandal, filed a motion today for a new trial. Hearing on the motion was set for July 11. Mr. Fitzgerald charges the recent verdict of guilty in the first case tried, was contrary to law, the evidence, the law of evidence and weight thereof, and that there is newly discovered evidence that is not cumulative.

SHEPHERD FREE OF ALL DEATH CHARGES

Chicago, June 30 (A.P.)—William D. Shepherd today was freed of the last charges against him when the grand jury voted a "no bill" in connection with the death of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock.

CHARGES PHONE TOLL FIGURES ARE FALSE

The New England & Telegraph Company has underestimated by nearly $2,500,000 teh revenue it will receivel n toll mtssages alone in 1926, Samuel H. Mildram, expert for the city of Boston, asserted at a continued hearing before the Public Utilities Commission on tht company's petition for an increase in rates amounting to $13,000,000.

Mildram introduced exhibits showing the total increase in toll messages from 1919 to 1924 was 28,603,272. The average increase was 5,720,654 messages or 16 per cent. a year.

Assuming that there will be only a 10 per cent. annual increase in the next three years, he declared, the number of messagts in Massachusetts should reach 65,119,904.

Mr. Whitney, for the company, Mildram pointed out, had estimated only 46,900,000 messages for Massachusetts in 1926, while the actual number for 1924 exceeded that by more than 2,000,000.

Figuring on the 10 per cent. increase in messages, Mildram said that instead of the 46,900,00 given by Whitney for 1926, the number would be 59,199,913.

"At an average value of 20 cents each, this difference represents in money a total of $2,459,983," he summed up.

YELLOW CAB MFG. CO. CONSIDERS MERGER

Scranton, Pa., June 30 (A.P.)—ohn L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, at the anthracite tri-district convention here today declared that the miners would accept no wage reduction in renewal of the wage contract expiring August 31. Mr. Lewis indicated that one of the principal demands of the union would be for adoption of the check-off. He warned that there were only 1,000,000 tons of domestic hard coal available in case of a suspension September 1, and asserted that the operators planned to spend $500,000 in a publicity campaign to defeat the miners and that the public would eventually pay the bill.

HEALTH CRUISE FOR BABIES IS BEGUN

With all hands on deck, nurses, doctors, and the passenger list of invalid, sickly youngsters, the good ship "Boston Floating Hospital" sailed out on its maiden voyage for the Summer from the North End Park dock to Boston Harbor.

Long before the gangplank was down, crowds of parents, big brothers and big sisters, with pale thin babies in their arms, waited to board the ship and register their charges for the Summer cruise that is the surest guarantee of bringing rosy cheeks and added pounds.

The day deck, lined with tiny white cribs, was the scene of the greatest excitement, where the babies were tagged, their temperatures taken, and alloted their "deck cribs" for their health cruise.

It is the "sunshine cure," heliotherapy, that is the biggest factor in restoring health and happiness to the sick kiddies of Boston. When the boat has anchored in Boston Harbor, the awnings are thrown back and the sunshine is allowed to pour over the rows of white cribs all the day long.

G. Loring Briggs, who entered upon his twentieth Summer as manager of the Floating Hospital, greeted today an old patient of his who claimed that her life had been saved on board the ship, and was intrusting her sickly child to the good offices of the ship and the ship doctors and nurses.

The ship carries a staff of seven visiting physicians, besides a large resident staff of doctors and nurses. Dr. Lawrence W. Smith is the head resident physician, and Edward Pope, chairman of the board of trustees, will be a passenger for the first few cruises.

POSSE CLOSES ON VERMONT ROBBER BAND

Armed Thugs Who Terrorized 6 Towns Believed Hiding in Swamp

Fairlee, Vt., June 30.—An armed posse of more than half a hundred men is close in pursuit of the gang of armed thugs who have been terrorizing sections of Vermont and New Hampshire for the past two weeks.

With a long string of safe cracking jobs charged against them, the desperadoes were seen leaving a building they had just looted in this town. The posse was hastily organized under the direction of local and Orange County police officials and the trail of the gang was taken up.

Three or four members of the gang were sighted in the woods between this town and Bradford and early today the posse was endeavoring to surround the fugitives.

The members of the gang, all heavily armed, have looted safes in Warren, Wolfeboro, Woodsville and Lyme, N. H., and in Newbury, Vt., and this town. Three places were entered here, among them being the offices of the E. T. & H. K. Ide Grain Company, where a safe was blown and $200 obtained. The Western Union office and the town hall were also entered by the gang but got nothing of value in either place.

It is believed the gang came here with the intention of blowing the town safe and obtaining tax funds. They failed to locate the safe which is not in the town hall.

The bold manner in which the gang operates has spread terror throughout the countryside. The men apparently have no fear of the police.

28 RESCUED FROM SHIP SUNK IN COLLISION

Gibraltar, June 30 (A.P.).—The British tank steamship Akera has rescued the crew of 28 men of the Spanish steamer Bartolo, which sank in eight minutes after a collision with an unknown vessel. The Bartolo, owned in Bilboa, Spain, was 2,907 gross tons, built in 1902 at Sunderland, Eng. The Akera sailed from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, May 28, for Barbados and St. Vincent.

3 Flights Up in Ruin; He Wants Only a Taxi

Los Angeles, June 30 (A.P.).—W. R. Scott, Los Angeles, who had a narrow escape from death in the new Californian hotel, Santa Barbara, tells this story:

"When I looked back the hotel was a gaunt ruin, its outer wall fallen into the street. And standing on a heap of wreckage on the third floor I saw a fat man screaming at the top of his voice for a taxicab."

Pajama-clad, Scott met an automobilist bound for Hollywood. The man invited him to come along, and together they fled the city without additional garments.

HANOVER TRUST TO PAY NEW DIVIDEND

A dividend of 5 per cent. to the commercial depositors of the closed Hanover Trust Company, recently authorized by the Supreme Court, will be paid tomorrow at the office of the liquidating agent, No. 101 Milk street, Room 309. A total of 52 per cent. has already been paid to this class of depositors.

The agent still holds more than 600 checks for commercial dividends previously declared, amounting to about $10,000, and some 700 checks for savings depositors aggregating more than $5,000, which have not been called for.

300 DEAD COUNTED ON RIFFIAN BATTLEFIELD

Rabt, French Morocco, June 30 (A.P.).—Three hundred Riffian dead were counted on the field after the offensive against the French that ended Saturday in the Upper Leben Valley, it was announced. The French troops on Sunday scoured the district and cleared out the enemy. Further west the little post of Bab Mizab was rescued from a violent attack by a French flying column, and the French forces, after destroying all their material, fell back.

LABOR LEADERS ARRAIGNED IN BOMB PLOT

Plead Not Guilty to Dynamiting New York Trolley Line Cars

Buffalo, N. Y., June 30 (I.N.S.).—William B. Fitzgerald of Detroit, vicepresident of the Amalgamated Electric Railway Employes; William P. Collins of Yonkers, an organizer for the American Federation of Labor and Frank T. O'Shea, prominently identified with the labor movement, were arraigned in Federal Court here today on charges of conspiracy to interfere with Interstate Commerce.

The cases are in connection with the dynamiting of high speed line cars near Elwood in 1922. All three pleaded not guilty.

The bail of Fitzgerald and Collins, given in Detroit, at the time of their arrest, was continued. O'Shea will renew his bail bond sometime during the day.

CAMBRIDGE MAN MARRIES IN BROOKLYN

Stephen O'Leary Takes Miss Agnes Weber as Bride; Hub Folk Present

Stephen O'Leary of Cambridge was married in Brooklyn today to Miss Agnes Weber of Brooklyn in St. Saviour's Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Eugene O'Sullivan.

Mr. O'Leary is a son of Michael O'Leary of Cambridge and is connected with the Frank T. Day Advertising Agency of Boston. He is a graduate of the Rindge Technical School and of the Massachusetts Normal Art School.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth and the late Frank Weber of Brooklyn, is a graduate of Our Lady of Mercy School and Erasmus Hall, Brooklyn. She was attended by Miss Julia O'Leary, sister of the bridegroom. James A. Considine of Watertown was best man.

At the reception following the wedding were many Boston friends. Mrs. Michael O'Leary and the Misses Marguerite, Julia, Kathleen and Nonie O'Leary and Miss Esther Coffey of Cambridge, Captain and Mrs. P. Dyson Skinner of Boston, Skeffington B. Jerome of Roxbury and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shaw of Newton were among those present.

Following a honeymoon at Lake Placid and Glens Falls and a tour through New York State, the couple will live in Elmhurst, L. I.

14 Days Silence Starts Speech Correction

Ithaca, N. Y., June 30 (A.P.).—A dozen high-spirited school girls from various sections of the country, who volunteered to appear as test subjects before the National Clinic for Speech Correction, which opened here, were shocked to find that they must not utter a word for two weeks, although they are living in the same dormitory.

When Dr. Frederick Martin, who is in charge of the clinic, made the announcement, a chorus of indignant feminine voices exclaimed, "O, impossible."

But a few minutes later, when Dr. Martin imposed the same ban on thirty young men, it created no unusual comment among them.

REFRIGERATOR MAKERS FINED

Two New England Concerns Among 16 Guilty Under Anti-Trust Law

Chicago, June 30 (A.P.).—Sixteen refrigerator manufacturing firms pleaded guilty in Federal Court today to indictments in the furniture cases under the Sherman anti-trust act and were assessed fines ranging from $2,000 to $5,000 each.

The refrigerator group is the second class of manufacturers to plead guilty, most of the chairmakers having done so recently and being assessed similar fines.

The refrigerator companies fined today included the Alaska Refrigerator Company, Muskegon, Mich., and the Challenge Refrigerator Company, Grand Haven, Mich., each fined $5,000, and the Arlington Refrigerator Company, Arlington, Vt., and Baldwin Refrigerator Company, Burlington, Vt., each fined $2,000.

TWO SAVED FROM DROWNING AT BEACHES

Woman and Boy Are Rescued by Lifeguard and a Policeman

A woman and a boy were saved from drowning in two daring rescues at L street and Carson Beach, South Boston, after they had ventured beyond their depths and had become exhausted.

The woman rescued was Mrs. Mary Pester, forty, of No. 535 East Sixth street, South Boston, who ventured beyond the safety mark at the L street baths and sank three times in thirty feet of water.

Myles Boyle, a lifeguard, was called from the men's side and he went out in a boat as the swiftest method. When the woman had gone under the third time, Boyle dove into the water and brought her up. She was revived on shore and sent home.

At Carson Beach, fifteen-year-old Hyman M. Molin, of No. 342 Harrison avenue, South End, was more ambitious than strong and he went under fifty yards off shore.

Patrolman Henry J. Demers, who was swimming at the time, went after the boy, accompanied by Alfred W. McCoy, bathhouse custodian. Young Molin was also revived on shore and sent home.

DAUGHTER, 13, DEFENDS MRS. SYMINGTON

Woman in Tears as Girl Testifies Against Stepfather in Divorce Case

New York, June 30 (A.P.)—Dorothea Webber, 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ida May Symington by her first husband, today took the witness stand in Supreme Court to defend her mother against charges of infidelity made by Thomas H. Symington, wealthy manufacturer and clubman, in his suit for divorce.

The appearance of her daughter on the stand broke down for the first time the composure which had marked the attitude of Mrs. Symington since the trial opened. She wept most of the time the girl testified.

The child upheld her mother's story of Symington's raid last Winter on her mother's home in Morristown, N. J., breaking down the doors with the aid of several men and rifling Mrs. Symington's desk of papers and letters.

Dorothea positively identified John Wallace Young, Symington's attorney, as the man who accompanied "Daddy Symington," as she referred to her stepfather, on a visit to the Morristown home while her mother was away and she was there alone. The girl pointed out Young in the courtroom.

MARY CARR IN NEW FILM AS MOTHER

Seen at Her Best as Old Lady in "Druscilla" at Tremont Temple

Mary Carr, the outstanding "Mother" of the American screen, is seen at her best in "Drusilla With a Million," now showing at the Tremont Temple.

The story deals with an old lady left a legacy of a million dollars, because the rather wild young hero of the story is cut off in a will. Mary Carr plays the part of Drusilla and with her fortune she starts a home for homeless babies. There is a charming love plot, the baby of the young hero finally reaching the Drusilla home which results in matters being settled satisfactorily all round.

Priscilla Bonner, Kenneth Harlan, Claire Du Brey and William Humphreys are in the supporting cast.

COMEDY IS FEATURE OF BILL AT KEITH'S

An ideal Summer program is offered at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week. It is breezy, full of genuine funny patter and altogether a most enjoyable bill.

Sylvia Clark, known as a klassy klown and Jim McWilliams, truly the "pianutist," proved to be the headliners. One of Sylvia's impersonations was the trials and tribulations experienced by many at a railroad station.

McWilliams, long a favorite in Boston, kidded his audience into gales of laughter and proved himself to be master on the piano.

Dorothy M. Nourse, and Harriet S. Krauth, recent winners of a movie contest, conducted by a Boston newspaper are on the bill.

Twenty Albertina Rasch girls presented in the pastelle ballet a splendid dance number, which featured Marita.

In one of the most skillful bits of trapeze work seen on the Keith stage in weeks, Rice and Elmer entertained in versatile bits.

QUARTET FEATURES BILL AT LOEW'S ORPHEUM

An appreciative audience enjoyed a spirited bill of vaudeville at Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. The big act of the day was the Bison City Four an aggregation of harmonists whose performance called forth rounds of applause. Pardo and Archer offered an entertaining sketch called "The Girl Next Door." The Rainbow Cabaret showed to advantage with a fine brand of humor and some excellent singing and dancing. Novelty was furnished by Boyd and Tallin. Their act presented some startling feats on the slack wire and unusual iron jaw sensations.

The photoplay feature was "After Business Hours," in which Elaine Hammerstein and Lou Tellegen were the principal players.

'MASKED COUNTESS' SINGS AT PEMBERTON INN SHOW

Pemberton Inn, the South Shore's popular dining and dancing palace by the sea, has a big drawing card this week in the nightly appearances of "The Mysterious Masked Countess," who reveals her beauty most generally outside of flashing two mischievous blue eyes through two holes in a mask.

The diners at Pemberton are manifesting great curiosity as to who she is, but they are even more interested in her remarkable voice which is heard to advantage in leading solo numbers of popular musical comedies and light operas and the arias from the familiar grand operas.

An added feature next Saturday night will be Elizabeth Brown, premiere ball room dancer, assisted by Dan Mearti.

GOOD PHOTOPLAY BILL SEEN AT LOEW'S STATE

Two unusually entertaining pictures were screened at Loew's State Theatre yesterday. Featuring the bill were Edmund Lowe in "The Kiss Barrier," a thrilling romance of a love that leaped all barriers, and "Daughters Who Pay," with John Bowers and Marguerite de La Motte in the leading roles.

In "The Kiss Barrier" a rather new treatment of motion picture plot is incorporated. The old saying "the villain still pursued her," is out of place. It should be "the villain still pursued him," for in this interesting photoplay the real villain is a girl. Claire Adams was most captivating as the heroine.

BOSTON HIPPODROME TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Boston's own Hippodrome will make its bow to the public next Monday night. The Hippodrome is the Arena building rechristened as well as renovated. It is situated at St. Botolph street and Massachusetts avenue, just a block south of Huntington.

Twenty-two numbers are included on the program, among them Hankinson's Auto Polo teams, Costello and Company, in a riding number, the Famous Sutcliffe Family, Scotch dancers and bagpipe players, the Fisher Sisters, and other features.

GERMANY CAN'T EVEN ATTEMPT POLE FLIGHT

Allies Impose Aircraft Restrictions Calculated to Keep Down Development

Berlin, June 30 (I.N.S.)—Drastic restrictions against German development of aircraft, so strict as to prohibit a flight to the North Pole without permission of the Allies, are contained in the note of the Ambassador's Council, delivered here today.

The note besides forbidding one-seaters of more than sixty horse-power as "military" planes, also prohibits the use of all aircraft without a pilot.

The note limits all German warships to 30,000 cubic meters capacity, orders Germany to provide lists of all pilots and all aviation students and to submit these lists to the Allies every quarter.

MRS. JOHN BARRYMORE MAKES DEBUT ON STAGE

Mrs. John Barrymore, wife of the actor, and known in the literary world as Michael Strange, poet and author, made her debut in Salem in the part of Sally Negly in Clyde Fitch's "Barbara Frietchie." A large audience, including many residents of the North Shore, applauded Mrs. Barrymore's efforts in the minor role.

It was the opening night of the second week of a scheduled run of ten weeks by a company organized under the direction of Hamilton MacFadden. Fitch's play is built around the Civil War heroine of that name.

SECOND SECTION

A Thrilling Novel of Love and Adventure, Mystery and Intrigue that Every-One Will Want to Read

(Photo by Charles Snyder)

Sally's first meeting with the goggled terror. As Sally attempted to escape he seized her by the left wrist. "Let me pass," cried Sally.

Posed by Louise Groody, star of "No, No, Nanette," and Jack Barker of the same company.

SALLY MEREDITH, nervy niece of M. FREDERICK LASALLE, war gas inventor, is intrusted with the secret of opening the red lacquer case containing the formula sought by spies of rival governments.

THE MARKED HAND appears at a window as Sally and her uncle confer. Sally, frightened, but brave, fruitlessly searches for the owner of the hand. That night the red lacquer case is stolen and Lasalle mysteriously disappears. The case is so constructed that the formula is destroyed if opened by one not in the secret.

MAJOR BILL ARMITAGE, seven years previously the sweetheart of Sally, appears in search of Lasalle. Unexpected meeting renews acquaintance, but Sally is coy and Bill blunders. At Smuggler's Leap Bill and Sally find Lasalle's fountain pen, mute evidence which adds to the fears of Bill. Sally clings to hope.

DETECTIVE WILLIAMS enters the mystery and takes up the trail of the stolen case. Sally is forlorn and Bill longs to comfort her. In fact he does, but Sally breaks away.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY asks Sally to open case. Reveals herself as one of the conspirators.

Read on and enjoy this wonderful story of love and mystery.

SALLY determined to get all she could from the mysterious veiled woman who claimed to bring a message from her uncle and who evidently was a conspirator in the stealing of the red lacquer case.

When Sally spoke, her voice sounded a little strange to herself, a little higher and louder than it needed to be.

"You have a written message from my uncle?"

A leather-gloved hand tapped impatiently.

"I tell you, even a message by word of mouth, it is a risk—and you say: 'Has he written?' "

"Why should there be any risk?" said Sally.

The hand tapped again.

"Do you doubt that I come from him? Is it that?"

Sally smiled. She was pleased to find that she could smile.

"Oh, no," she said.

Bill would have thought her tone too sweet. He had reason to beware of Sally when she spoke sweetly and raised limped eyes. The woman looked behind her again.

"We must not waste time," she said. "If you will open the case, I will take you now to where it is. Believe me, if you wish to help your uncle there is need for hurry."

Sally stopped leaning on her stick, and stood up straight.

"If there is anything that my uncle wishes me to do, I will do it—when I have his written authorization. And now I must be getting home."

There was a little electric pause before the woman said: "Can you not understand? I tell you there is danger. I tell you there is need for haste; and you talk to me of a written authorization."

"I'm sorry," said Sally, "but I can't do anything without it."

She smiled again, threw a good-bye over her shoulder, and began to walk briskly in the direction of Chark. Her heart was beating a good deal faster than usual, but her uncertainty had vanished. Like a little white-hot flame there burned in her conviction that the woman was lying, that she did not come from Fritzi at all; so she stuck her chin in the air and walked away.

"You do not care," said the woman, "how much you injure him, your uncle? You will not move a finger to help when he asks for help? I am to go back and say 'Sally washes her hands of you, she will not help.' I am to say that?"

Sally turned her face towards the car for a moment. Her brows were arched over scornful eyes. Her color was high.

"You can go back and say, 'Sally isn't a fool,'" she said, and with a little nod she turned, scrambled up the bank on her right, squeezed through a gap in the hawthorn hedge that topped it, and, with a parting wave of the hand, struck out across the fields for home.

CHAPTER VIII

At home she found Bill's telegram. "On no account keep appointment." To persons of Sally's turn of mind it is very pleasing to find that you have done a thing which somebody forbids.

She sat down and wrote Major Armitage a faithful account of the forbidden interview, and she did not tell him that his telegram had arrived after the affair. If Bill supposed that just because they were friends again he could start ordering her about, he would have to be shown the error of his ways. Sally smiled and sparkled as she wrote.

When the letter was ready she asked Mrs. Callender to take it to the post, and, as it chanced, Mrs. Callender met Mr. Preston and gave

FEDERAL AID WRONG, GOVERNORS TOLD

10 Members of 101st Infantry Arrested in Bed

50-50 PLAN OF FEDERAL AID SCORED

Governor Ritchie of Maryland, at Conference, Says Most States Get "Short End"

Poland Springs, Me., June 30 (A.P.).—The subject of Federal and State distribution of government powers engaged the seventeenth annual convention of Governors today, with Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and John Hammill of Iowa as the speakers.

At the afternoon session co-operative marketing was to be taken up with Governor Thomas G. McLeod of South Carolina leading the discussion. Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska was to talk on the problems of agriculture.

SCOUTS COOLIDGE CLAIMS.

For relaxation, three naval airplanes which arrived yesterday awaited the pleasure of the State executives at Lake Thompson, four miles by air from here. Governor Nellie T. Ross of Wyoming was among those who planned to fly.

The planes are of the latest construction and have been brought here to show the Governors the Navy's most recent developments in airplane construction.

Tonight the visiting Governors will be the guests of Governor and Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine at a dinner at the Poland Spring House.

Governor Ritchie, in his address, described the fifty-fifty system of Federal aid and explained why it ought to be stopped.

QUESTIONS ARE LOCAL.

"I think it fair to say that all these arguments in the main are opportunistic or geographic" he said. "They rest not on principle but on expediency. Certain States, for practical reasons of their own, want to keep on getting Federal aid.

Governor Ritchie then showed that eighteen States get back in Federal aid less than 10 per cent. of what they pay in income taxes. These States, with the percentages of their Federal aid, are:

Washington, 9.77; Delaware, 9.22; Indiana, 8.71; Wisconsin, 8.37; Maine, 8.14; West Virginia, 7.36; Missouri, 6.40; Ohio, 3.60; Maryland, 3.15; California, 3.11; Michigan, 2.75; Connecticut, 2.27; Rhode Island, 2.23; Illinois, 2.21; Pennsylvania, 2.20; New Jersey, 1.77; Massachusetts, 1.13, and New York, .85.

Governor Ritchie showed that the "fifty-fifty" Federal aid fund amounts to approximately $76,000,000 and that these eighteen States contribute over $61,000,000 to it, and get back less than $33,000,000 from it, the balance of over $43,000,000 going to the other thirty States.

SURPRISED AT SMITH.

After having injected a political atmosphere into the conference, Governor Smith left for New York City today by automobile.

Smith's attack on the Coolidge economy claims, which featured the Governor's address on comparison of the Federal and State budgets, has caused consciousness of party lines to appear among the executives.

Despite the outward support by Democratic Governors of Smith's contention that the administration's economy claim "is extravagant," Democratic executives expressed surprise that Smith should have introduced political matters into a non-partisan gathering.

Bradford Ross, 12 years old, son of Governor Ross, who is getting as much enjoyment out of his experiences at the Governors' conference as any of those in attendance, will motor to Sebago Lake to stay overnight at a boys' camp as the guest of the two young sons of Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine.

Legion Cooperation Urged

Ottawa, June 30 (A.P.)—Co-operation between the American Legion and the British Empire Service League as a "power for world good" was urged by Earl Haig in extending a welcome to Col. James A. Drain, commander-in-chief of the Legion. Col. Drain is here as a guest of the League conference.

BOYS CHRISTEN HARBOR TRIP WITH 'GINGER'

Every Summer the boys of the House of the Angel Gurdian of Jamaica Plain anticipate their trip down the harbor, and today thirty-six were taken for their annual cruise aboard the "Wasaka III." Commodore John J. Martin, who owns the yacht and gives this outing to the boys, also supplied them with plenty to eat. The boat left the Boston Yacht Club in South Boston early today for an all-day sail with stop-overs at Nantasket and the Harbor Islands. Brother Theodore and Brother Rombric of the Home went along with the lads.

AMPLIFIERS TO CARRY SCOPES CASE STORY

Dayton, Tenn., June 30 (A.P.)—While defence attorneys in Northern cities worked on the legal phases of the Scopes evolution case, Dayton went ahead today making plans to meet the physical wants of the thousands who are expected to attend the trial of the Tennessee school teacher.

A big house on a hill is being prepared for the residence of attorneys who will defend John T. Scopes.

For those who will be unable to get into the courtroom, the engineers may erect a huge auditorium, with amplifiers to convey to the overflow throng the details of the legal battle.

Dr. John R. Neal, chief counsel for Mr. Scopes, was in New York today, presumably to confer with witnesses. He already has conferred with Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone, his associates in the case.

"This case has more than local significance," Dr. Neal said. "One is amazed at the extent of latent sentiment of intolerance and bigotry in other States, a force that will come to the surface once the opportunity is ripe.

"If the State's charges against Scopes are sustained you will see other evolution trials and perhaps a movement in Congress to control the thought as well as the actions of people."

An extract from the report of the American Teachers' Federation secretary presented before the convention in Chicago says, in part:

"The teaching of evolution in disregard of State statutes is not the major issue. It is only the technical charge on which American education has been arranged and brought to the bar of a local court, from which the final appeal will be to the conscience and intelligence of the American people."

RABBI EPSTEIN TO BE HONORED TONIGHT

Rabbi Louis M. Epstein will be banqueted this evening in Beacon House, Brookline, by his many friends and associates of the Crawford Street Synagogue, Roxbury, which he leaves to become the spiritual leader and advisor of Temple Kehillath Israel, Brookline.

Sumner S. Shore is chairman and Samuel Meltzer is treasurer of the affair and everything has been done to make the banquet one representative of the love, esteem and devotion of the congregation of their outgoing minister.

On August 1, next, Rabbi Epstein will sever connection with Congregation Beth Hamidrash Hagadol.

Rabbi Epstein is especially popular with the younger folks, having catered to their needs and religious vacancies. For them he established many junior organizations afiliated with the temple, for them he developed clubs and societies, making them feel a real and active part of the community; for which he is truly beloved by all who know him. Tomorrow Rabbi Epstein will leave on a well-earned and much needed vacation.

What is the Crawford Street Synagogue's loss is Temple Kehillath Israel's gain, but be it as it may, Boston still remains the winner throughout.

Rabbi Epstein was born in Lithuania in 1887 and came to this country in 1904. He has written much on philosophical and Talmudic subjects and is now president of the National Rabbinical Assembly, an envious position to be sure.

• • •

The banquet committee enlarged for the occasion consists of the following: Philip Shaffer, Harris Poorvu, Victed Kaufman, S. J. Goldings, Harris Swartz, Joseph Simon, Wolf Ames, Louis Jolles, Morris Feinberg, William Feinberg, David Warrer, Nathan Levine, Sol Alperin, Hyman Cohen, B. Frankel, S. Quint, M. Spevak, Marks Angell, Morris Brown, Samuel Green, Morris Miller, Harris Rubin, Morris Pofcher, David Lief, Samuel Cohen, M. A. Ross, Harry Kaufman, Harry Berger, Charles Jolles, Joseph Paul, Wolf Schrieder and Isaac Levine.

Samuel A. Margolis and Celia Goldshine will represent the Junior organization of the congregation on the banquet committee.

• • •

Representatives of the various chapters to the convention of the Associated Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Associations which will be held in Fall River the week of Labor Day, are as follows:

Lynn Y. M. H. A.: President El Cohen, Jack Finkelstein, Aaron Cobrin and Samuel Sidman.

Chelsea Y. M. H. A.: Harry Gargar, Harry S. Mann, George E. Gordon, Benjamin Schwalb and George Salevetz.

The Waltham Young Women's Hebrew Association has elected the following slate for the coming year: Mrs. Jennie C. Goldberg, president; Mrs. Eva Kaitz, vice-president; Mrs. Ellen Levy, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Nottenberg, financial secretary; Mrs. Lottie Caplan, treasurer; Mrs. Annie Kaplan, auditor.

• • •

Work will start in a few weeks on the new home of the Lynn Young Men's Hebrew Association which is to be built at City Hall square.

Inexorable Fate Claims Lives of 4 Sailors

Gloucester, June 30. — Last February the halibut schooner Republic was run down and sunk off New Foundland. Among those saved were Samuel Tibbetts, Archie Hill, George Johnson and Joseph Dalton. They laughed at their adventure with fate. Today their bodies are drifting on the restless Atlantic. They went down with the schooner Rex, rammed by the Tuscania.

2 KILLED, 7 HURT IN PHILADELPHIA BLAST

Philadelphia, June 30.—Two persons were killed and seven injured, three seriously, when a napha tank at plant of A. F. Bornot Brothers Company exploded, wrecking three houses of the dyeing concern.

GLOUCESTER TO ASK PROBE OF TRAGEDY

Gloucester, June 30.—With the Cunard liner Tuscania due in New York today with the survivors from the ill-fated fishing schooner Rex aboard, friends of the fifteen who lost their lives when the liner ran the schooner down off Cape Race are preparing to demand an investigation.

Attorneys have been consulted and every effort will be made to fix responsibility for the crash which occurred while the Rex was anchored in the halibut fishing grounds off Nova Scotia.

Should it be determined that the liner was at fault, action will be taken to secure suitable damages from the Cunard Company.

It is believed here that the body of Captain Downey, master of the Rex, was the only one of the fifteen bodies recovered. It is aboard the Tuscania and will be taken in charge by the New York Lodge of Elks when the liner docks.

Gloucester is eagerly awaiting the arrival home of the nine survivors who were picked up by the Tuscania. Upon their stories will depend the action that will be taken on behalf of the dependents of the fishermen who lost their lives in the tragedy.

ROBINSON TO VISIT N. E. NAVAL PORTS

HELD FOR MISSING DRILL

Locked Up in East Boston on Complaint of Military Authorities

Ten members of Co. A, 101st Infantry, M.N.G., were plucked from their beds and arrested early today by East Boston police on request of Captain Francis A. Phelan of the A Co. outfit.

Each is alleged to be an habitual absentee from drills and other activities of the organization.

Captain Phelan, in a letter to Captain Hickey of the East Boston police station, asked the arrest of the men, and Sergeant Hurley, accompanied by a number of patrolmen, went to the designated addresses, got the men and locked them in police cells, pending being taken into custody of the national guardsmen.

ARCHBISHOP MANNIX HAS DUBLIN OVATION

Dublin, June 30 (A.P.)—Archbishop Mannix and a group of Australian pilgrims arrived here last evening and received an ovation as they passed in procession, accompanied by many bands, through the crowded streets. They were accompanied on the trip by Eamon de Valera and the Republican deputies of the Dail Eireann.

At the Dublin station they were presented with an address by the members of the Dublin corporation, suspended by the Free State government. The address recalled the encouragement which Archbishop Mannix's opposition to conscription in Australia had given to those fighting the same issue in Ireland.

The Free State government has shown no disposition to interfere with the visit of the archbishop.

BERNIER OFF FOR ARCTIC TO SUPPLY POLICE POSTS

Quebec, June 30.—The steamer Arctic, in which Captain J. E. Bernier is making another trip to the northern regions on official business for the Canadian government, sailed at noon today.

The ship is laden with supplies for the outposts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and also has on board Noo-Koo-Lah, an Eskimo, returning home after having served a sentence in Stony Mountain Penitentiary for the murder of a countryman. Government officials also accompany Bernier. It is probable they will open new posts for the mounted police in northern regions.

RUTH GIVES BAD ANKLE MEAN SHAKE DANCING

FANS SEEK ANSWER TO MYSTERY

Some Yankee Players Intimate Club Is Doing a Barnum and Bailey With Babe

By "AL."

We have been more or less balked, in one way or another, in our attempts to get at the real inside facts in regard to George Herman "Babe" Ruth, as of this date.

But we believe we are getting "warm." Eventually we expect to report progress. In the meanwhile several matters touching on and appertaining to "The Big Ruth Mystery" are worth setting down.

Mark you, the management of the Yankees doesn't have much to say. One might get the impression that they were trying to "do a Barnum & Bailey" with the King of Swat.

Here's the idol of the American baseball public "about to have his ankle X-rayed in search of a broken bone." That's what we have flimsied to us. And yet one of our men saw the Babe shake a mean ankle on a dance hall floor in Rhode Island on Sunday.

We are not attempting to destroy the faith of the American small boy in the Big Bam. Nor are we panning the flappers of Bristol, R. I., for flocking around one of the country's prominent men. It isn't the Babe's fault that the flappers flock around. They'd flock around Old Doc Bryan or anybody else in the public eye.

But, if the Babe is still really indisposed, we would like to ask why he is still shunted around the country to play in exhibition games, when the exhibition game stunt was what paved the way to his long stay in a New York Hospital this Spring.

We understand that several members of the Yankee team are not especially satisfied with the way the Babe is being sent in there when he "isn't right." Others tell us that Ruth was missing his swings at the apple by several feet last Saturday.

If we were Mrs. Ruth and our friend hubby were being run ragged to bolster up the gate we'd put our foot down.

If anybody is "doing a Barnum & Bailey" with Ruth, we'd like to suggest that those master circus men took much better care of their main attraction when they opened up under the big tent years ago.

'Don't Know When I'll Play Again,' Ruth Tells Girl Fan

By HELEN BISSETT

"THE bat feels pretty heavy these days," observed Babe Ruth with a wistful smile and a longing look at the field where his brethren were hitting baseballs all over Fenway Park while waiting for the game with the Red Sox to start.

"I don't know when I'm going to play again. I hope soon, though."

Thousands of fans who lined the stands at yesterday's game hoped against hope that Ruth would take his place at the bat and give them just a little of the stuff they love.

He did climb into his uniform and stroll out into the diamond, but his activities were confined to watching the others perform. And how he hates THAT.

"It's awful having to sit still and watch everyone else work," exclaimed the Babe and his rueful countenance would have been funny if it hadn't been so tragic.

"I was all right until my legs started bothering me. The pain started above the knee and went down and now its in my ankles—I don't know, maybe it will go right out my toes. I hope it does."

"Sometimes I think that I ought to lay off for a while, and then I am convinced that the only way to do is to keep on going.. I don't know how to treat this—you see I never had anything like it happen before—never was real sick in my life before this Spring."

Mr. Ruth's mind is in a turmoil. He is getting the signals just a bit mixed. Doesn't know whether to Stop or to Go. And to those who love baseball and have made an idol of the big home run king, kiddies and grown ups too, it is a tragedy—nothing less.

"I don't know when the management will decide to let me play, but I am hopeful that it will be soon," he said. "I'm going to stay here as long as the team does. Perhaps I can give the fans something before the time is up."

On Saturday Babe was out to his farm, the lovely place that is about to pass into other hands.

"I have a couple of prospective purchasers now," he said thoughtfully, "and I hope it will be settled before long. I should like to have it disposed of before I go."

The one ray of joy in George Herman's gloom shrouded young life is the fact that Mrs. Ruth is on the way to recovery. His face brightened when he mentioned his wife.

"She's getting better," he said, almost happily. "It certainly hasn't helped me any to have her ill. As soon as she gets well I'll do the same. AND WHEN I DO, I'M GOING TO PLAY HARDER THAN EVER."

Babe Ruth is an ardent spirit. He loves the game and is miserable in his enforced idleness, the more so when he sees his team go down to defeat, thinking perhaps he might have saved the day.

At the close of yesterday's game, literally hundreds of youngsters swooped down upon the field and made with one accord for their hero, asking in anxious tones, "How do you feel, Babe, how to you feel?" Some of the smaller ones poked their hands ingratiatingly into his big one.

"Not so good," replied the illustrious one, gathering as many hands as possible into his grasp and heading for the club house, followed by the army of his admirers, some of whom ran in circles round him in the effort to gain a share of attention.

One of the nicest things about Babe Ruth is his kindness to the thousands of small boys who camp on his trail. They are always with him. They pop at him from around corners, from under his car, from every conceivable place—but he is never too busy or too out of sorts to say a cheerful "Hello, boys."

They look for him in the game. He hopes with all his heart that he will not have to disappoint them much longer.

GANAY IS BEST OF FOREIGN BIKE RIDERS

Besides holding the French championship, Gustav Ganay is credited by the Cycling Association of France, with having riden a bicycle ten miles in seven minutes and thirty seconds.

This time was made on a concrete automobile track, one lap to the mile. Ganay was paced by a racing auto, and the Marseilles youth had a special gear on his bike.

Wednesday night Ganay makes his season's debut at the Revere track in a 30-mile paced race. Opposing him will be Frank Keenan, Charles Verkeyn and Charles Jaeger, the latter also making his debut.

Considerable interest is being aroused among the railbirds in the New England professional sprint championship series. Bruskie, Bartel, Stockhelm, Meyers, Supp'e and Walsh are the favorites.

COURT SEEKS TO STOP MASCART LEAVING

New York, June 30 (A.P.)—An order for the arrest of Edouard Mascart, featherweight champion of France, was issued by Supreme Court Justice Benedict on application of promoters of the Coney Island Stadium. They charged that Mascart planned to sail today for France in spite of the fact that he is bound by contract to fight Babe Herman of California at the stadium tonight.

Mascart several days ago applied to the State athletic commission to cancel the Herman match on the ground that he had injured one of his hands in training. Examination by a physician failed to reveal an injury. His petition was denied.

BEST STEEDS FOR WINDSOR MEETING

by GUS DALY.

Windsor, Ct., June 30.—The trotters and pacers making the circuit will stop off here for four days of racing tomorrow. The horses are in fine shape for this meeting, as their performance in recent showings has proven.

The 2:15 stake trot Thursday for $10,000 has a wonderful field entered with Bee Worthy, Ensign Tige and Vinland, Jr., looking like the three best.

The 2:12 stake pace, Friday, July 3, for $10,000, will have the largest number of starters of the week. Gritt McKinney, the Western whirlwind, who has won his three starts of the season in Ohio, has arrived at the course and it is generally conceded that with good racing luck and all things equal, the pacer which heads this one will earn the money.

The stake for two-year-old trotters will show for the first time Major Mozart, a highly tried youngster which trained at Readville. They will have to uncover something wonderful if they are to beat Ed. McGrath's great colt, Harrison Dillon, in the three-year-old stake trot.

KING SOLOMON MEETS MALONEY JULY 10

By RINGSIDE

King Solomon is coming to Boston.

The heavyweight champion of Central America has been signed to battle Big Jim Maloney in the feature ten-round bout at a show to be staged by the Suffolk A. A. at Braves Field on Friday evening, July 10.

Solomon is the latest heavyweight sensation. New York boxing critics hail him as the greatest Jewish heavyweight since the days of Joe Choynski.

The King has proved a riot since he invaded America. He first polished off the badly battered Quintin Romero Rojas. He then stepped in and knocked off Ad Stone of Philadelphia. Solomon was the first fighter to ever win a decision over Stone.

Joe Woodman, formerly manager of Sam Langford, is piloting Solomon.

Maloney will go to Marlboro to train. He will occupy the same camp he did for his tussle with Jack Sharkey.

First Mortgage 6% Fee and Leasehold Serial Coupon Bonds

Unconditionally Guaranteed as to the Prompt Payment of Principal and Interest by William Randolph Hearst

Dated June 12, 1925. Interest Coupons Payable June and December 1. Due Serially June 1, 1929 to June 1, 1942.

2% Federal Income Tax Paid; Pennsylvania four mills tax, Massachusetts 6% State Income Tax, Connecticut four mills tax, Maryland 4½ mills tax, District of Columbia 5 mills tax, and Virginia 5½ mills tax refunded upon proper application.

The exceptionally attractive features of this issue are summarized as follows from a letter from Mr. Arthur Brisbane, president of the borrowing corporation, and data compiled in our investigation:

Mortgaged Properties: The bonds are a direct closed first mortgage on five exceptionally well-located and valuable New York City properties, as follows:

SECURITY	LOCATION
1.—18-STORY OFFICE BUILDING* and land in fee	20 East 57th Street
2.—20-STORY OFFICE BUILDING* and long-term leasehold estate	5 East 57th Street
3.—20-STORY APARTMENT HOTEL* and land in fee	Northeast corner 54th Street and Sixth Avenue
4.—THE NEW ZIEGFELD THEATRE* and land in fee, leased for a period of years to F. Ziegfeld, Jr.	Northwest corner 54th Street and Sixth Avenue
5.—TWO COMPLETED BUSINESS BUILDINGS and land in fee	9 East 57th Street, extending through block to 58th Street

(*These buildings are to be erected at once and completion is guaranteed to the bondholders.)

Location: Fifty-seventh Street is the principal high class crosstown business thoroughfare of New York. This street and the district surrounding it have undergone a great development. Real estate values here have doubled during the past five years and the future of this section is unquestioned. The two north corners of 54th Street and Sixth Avenue are in the heart of the great development of upper Sixth Avenue from 53rd Street north to Central Park, resulting chiefly from the removal of the Sixth Avenue Elevated spur in this section. Property values in this district have greatly increased and the location is becoming one of the best in upper Manhattan.

Valuation and Earnings:	Independently Appraised Value	Amount of Loan	Margin of Security
	$9,400,000	$7,000,000	$2,400,000

Mr. Hearst and Mr. Brisbane value these properties in excess of $10,000,000.

Estimated Net Earnings	Annual Interest and Principal Requirements	Margin of Earnings
$802,784	$595,000	$207,784

Guarantee: William Randolph Hearst unconditionally guarantees the prompt payment of interest and principal. Mr. Hearst is one of the wealthiest men of the country. He is the publisher and sole owner of the most valuable group of newspapers and magazines in the world, doing a business in excess of $120,000,000 annually.

Borrowing Corporation: Arthur Brisbane is president of the borrowing corporation, and with Mr. Hearst controls the company. While probably best known to the public as editor of the Hearst papers, Mr. Brisbane is a most successful real estate investor. His holdings of income-producing real estate in New York City alone total over nine millon dollars, and he has a very large income from this source. We have had many satisfactory dealings, aggregating millions of dollars, with Mr. Brisbane, covering a period of ten years.

Price, according to maturity, to yield 5.90 to 6.10%. Denominations, $1,000, $500 and $100. Call or write today for detailed information and ask for

KEEPING AHEAD OF TOMORROW

By Katherine Negley

T[illegible] and [illegible] Mother [illegible] her when [illegible] went to Anna Mary's [illegible] wake her she fe[illegible] with he[illegible] last [illegible]

Anna Mary was [illegible] gown [illegible] Mother [illegible] at her [illegible] Anna Mary opened her eyes [illegible] then.

Talked Long

[illegible] Mother [illegible] first morning [illegible] wedding day. [illegible] Mother bathed and blessed her [illegible] At eleven [illegible] a woman. [illegible] was to be Father's hour [illegible] His eyes were too misty to [illegible] Aunt Hannah [illegible] a white face [illegible] marked [illegible] important, Father opened [illegible] and read.

"No wedding for me today. Changed my mind. Sorry.

"Phillip George Randolph."

Father's face went white, then [illegible]. He [illegible] The do[illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] family in Virginia. Be[illegible] I am [illegible] a self-made [illegible] money [illegible] We [illegible] would not have [illegible] Serves us right [illegible] marry our girl [illegible]

[illegible] Mother has fainted and the guests will hear you [illegible] of Anna Mary.

Father placed Mother [illegible] and laid her on the bed. Aunt Han[illegible] [illegible] weak [illegible]

All the Same.

"Bobby O'Day would be glad to marry me even at this late hour," suggested Anna Mary without a tremor.

"But you do not love him," moaned Mother. "Oh why were we so ambitious for you?"

"One husband is just the same as another in a few weeks, they tell me," said Anna Mary airily.

Now her father gave her a shrewd and penetrating glance. He was used to her strategy in getting what she wanted even while she pretended to be willing to accept what some one else thought she should want.

The faintest smile stirred the corners of Anna Mary's mouth, but her eyes were steady and her face was grave.

"Call up Bobby [illegible] him," [illegible] "That [illegible] be better than facing everyone with some story as to why the wedding was postponed."

Father gave Anna Mary one more sharp glance and [illegible] down the telephone. A telephone extension had been necessary [illegible] Anna Mary's room, for she had been greatly beloved and desired.

It was suspiciously easy to get Bobby on the line. He was suspiciously willing to take the place of Phillip George, and he was suspiciously sure he could get a license and be there at twelve.

So at twelve exactly the strains of Lohengrin sounded and down the stairs came the flower girls, the ring bearer, the bridesmaids, Mother, who Anna Mary had insisted was to be the matron of honor, Father who gave the bride away, and Anna Mary.

The bridal procession claimed all the attention, as is usual in such ceremonies, so [illegible] audible gasp [illegible] they saw Bobby where Phillip was expected.

Went Smoothly.

But the ceremony went on so smoothly, Father was so jovial and proud, Mother was so serene and [illegible] Anna Mary [illegible] so tickled that most of the guests took the whole affair calmly as another manifestation of the [illegible] irresponsibility of modern young folk.

"I changed my mind at the last minute," explained Anna Mary [illegible]. So [illegible] wedding breakfast was served [illegible] the usual banter, Anna Mary [illegible] her bouquet and the guests [illegible] Anna Mary was now a wife.

At midnight the decorations and the caterers had taken their paraphernalia elsewhere, the last guest had gone, the presents were all packed, and the house wore its usual look but had a strange emptiness without the presence of Anna Mary.

"What about the newspapers?" asked Mother tremulously. "I suppose they will have headlines of 'Changed Bridegrooms at the Last Moment.'"

"I fixed that," said Father, grasp[illegible] "Probably some of the old [illegible] will compare the papers showing Phillip George's picture before the wedding and Bobby afterward, but there will no printed comment. The account of the wedding will be just what it was to be, with a change in names."

"Young people are certainly enigmas these days," said Mother pensively. "So cool and flippant about the important things of life. Why I would have died if I had not gotten you."

"And I would have gone through fire and water to get you," said Father. "You were the loveliest girl in the world then and you are ten times as lovely now."

"Oh, Father, how you talk!" said Mother as she nestled her head just under his chin, or rather just under his two chins, for Father was of the type that shows age by thin hair and embonpoint.

At the same moment a young man in mauve silk pajamas sat on a berth of a New York bound train. He held a roll of money in his hand and looked at it gloatingly.

"One thousand-dollar bills," he [illegible] "[illegible] never miss it."

"I [illegible]," he continued [illegible] the Randolphs of Virginia [illegible] to be one of their [illegible]

Then he drew the covers about his neck [illegible] the money under his pillow [illegible] the light and went [illegible] to sleep. He had a very modern but slightly calloused conscience.

Dramatic Moment

At the same moment [illegible] one of the dramatic moments we read about in fiction—a girl with eyes like violets drenched in morning dew, sat in the bridal suite of the best hotel in the city, with a youth.

"Those of Mother's generation are so prosaic, thinking only of position and money. Why, I would have died if I had lost you."

"And I would have gone through fire and water to get you. You are the loveliest, sweetest and cleverest girl that ever was in the world."

"Oh Bobby, how you do talk," said Anna Mary as she nestled her head just under Bobby's square and dimpled chin.

OUR OWN PET RECIPES

How to keep a cinder out of your eye: The minute you see one coming shut both your eyes. This plan is especially recommended to a person thinking of taking a train trip.

To make your wife furious: Agree with her in all her arguments.

How to prevent your little boy from getting lost while you are talking to a friend: Tie a bag of limburger cheese around his waist and he can be traced no matter how far he wanders away.

To keep a thief from picking your pocket: Let your wife do it before you leave the house.

How to get rid of the boll-weevil. (Special advice to farmers): Don't plant any cotton.

To make a woman miserable: Tell her a secret and then tell her that if she repeats it you shall tell her correct age to her rival.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

"SILHOUETTES, twenty-five cents the couple! Step this way ladies and gentlemen and have your picture cut out, black and white, all for the tiny sum of a quarter of a dollar. Mothers, sweethearts, children, all done in two minutes. Sil——"

This is the cry of the few remaining representatives of the lost art of silhouette-cutting. You find them at large Summer resorts, festivals, bazaars—wherever crowds gather to make merry. And because their art is dying an inconspicuous death these wielders of the shears and paste-pot have managed to make a tidy sum within the last few years. One artist confided to a reporter that he made as much as $50.00 a day during the Summer season—and a few thousand the rest of the year.

"The "black art" although it reached the height of its vogue about a century ago, was introduced in France about the year 1759. Etienne de Silhouette, minister of finance under Louis XV at that time, became interested in a Paris exhibition of what was then known as Chinese Shadows. This consisted in throwing upon a sheet the black outlines of people or objects and making these shadows take part in a play.

Silhouette was at that time very unpopular in France. He had made a visit to England where he was much impressed by the English practice of economy. His application of these principles in France met with unqualified disapproval and his efforts were scoffed at as parsimony and cheese-paring. It was recalled that he had once written a book called "A General Idea for the Government of the Chinese," and the idea was propagated that the book was advance publicity for the Chinese shadows. Hence these shadows received the name "silhouettes" and the term was later extended to portraits that were coming into vogue at the time—the outline of faces and figures filled in with black.

The vogue and name of the silhouette, although comparatively recent, do not prove that the art is a new one. It was much employed by Etruscan potters of the eighth century before Christ. A classic legend claimed that all pictorial art originated in an attempt to paint the fleeting shadows of men and women as they fell upon a wall or blank space.

As can readily be understood, outline-drawing is not a very extensive field for the artist. Yet in the hands of Augustin Edouart it proved itself capable of extraordinary expression of character. This master of the art wrote a book on the subject and his occasional portraits are very highly valued by collectors.

Within recent years a machine has been invented which turns out, in a remarkably short time, exact likenesses. To the layman these portraits may seem perfect, but the artist knows that no machine can reproduce the subtler nuances of expression and character which the deft fingers of a human being can portray.

Lovers of Dickens will undoubtedly remember the passage in "Pickwick Papers" in which Sam Weller mentions the silhouette machine. "So I take the privillidge of the day, Mary, my dear—as the gen'l'm'n in difficulties did, ven he valked out of a Sunday—to tell you that the first and only time I see you, your likeness was took on my heart in much quicker time and brighter colors than ever a likeness was took by the profeel macheen, although it does finish a portrait and put the frame and glass on complete, with a hook at the end to hang it up by, and all in two minutes and a quarter."

To surmise that the imagination of Mr. Sam Weller had led him astray when he described the processes of the profile machine would not be incorrect. The machine did turn out likenesses in two and a half minutes—but no hook was attached to the frame. In fact there was no frame.

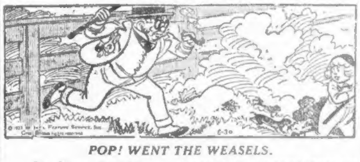
BEDTIME STORY

Broadcast Daily at 5:30 p. m. Through Station WNAC



POP! WENT THE WEASELS.

By Foxy Grandpa

"COME, Bobby and Bunny," I said one Summer evening, "let's walk down to the edge of the field and see the sunset from there."

Bunny kept silent in my pocket. Only once in a while his two ears would pop out and he would look around rather nervously.

"Feel all right, Bunny?" I asked once, patting the little fellow.

"Oh, yes, thank you, Foxy Grandpa, I'm all right," said Bunny.

But I knew differently. And you will know very soon, too, when I tell you what happened.

Bobby got tired of running around, so he took a stick and commenced digging a hole in the loose earth at the edge of the field which had been planted some time before.

Presently Bobby gave a very vigorous dig with the stick which he used for a shovel, and out of the earth came a shower of dirt and right in the middle of it something which was the color of the earth. It wriggled and it had four feet and a tail and gave out a sharp little squeak as it tumbled to the earth.

I felt Bunny shiver in my pocket as he heard that squeak and I knew that for some reason or other he was afraid of the little animal which had made it.

For it was only a couple of seconds after the weasel had popped out of the earth—for that is what it was—when what should come trooping out of the hole which Bobby had dug but eleven little weasels, squeaking and showing their teeth savagely.

They flew at Bobby, and if I hadn't jumped down quickly from my perch on the fence-rail Bobby might have been bitten badly. For although small animals they are courageous and savage, loyal to their friends and quick to offer defence.

As I raised my stick off they scampered like rolling balls of earth.

We started home. The sun had disappeared by now and, as we walked along, Bunny wriggled out of my pocket and hopped by my side.

"I was afraid of that, Foxy Grandpa," he said, looking up into my face. "Many of my relations have been cut off in the prime of life by those wretched weasels. I hope that you frightened them so that they will decide to move. Otherwise I will not have a very peaceful vacation this Summer."

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

A STRANGER was arrested in a large hotel the other day for sneaking in and stealing a bath. The judge only fined him a dollar because it was his first offence.

HE said he had never taken any before.

AND promised that he'd never take one again.

HE couldn't help it. He was a kleptomaniac and took anything he saw.

IF he wanted to steal baths he should have gone to Russia where he wouldn't have any competition.

HE could take all the baths he wanted and nobody would ever miss them.

THE hotel manager prosecuted this guy and claimed that the crime was premeditated because he took it on a Thursday.

IF he had stolen it on Saturday he would have figured that it was force of habit.

STEALING a bath is a crime even if you furnish your own soap and towels.

YOU have no right to cause wear and tear to another person's tub.

A BATH is one thing that you can steal and still leave there.

IT'S getting so that people even have to lock their tubs up.

YOU never know when you're liable to come home and find it full of strangers.

PEOPLE should have two baths. One for themselves and the other for burglars.

A MAN who steals a bath isn't necessarily a crook at heart. He hates to bathe in the ocean where there's no privacy.

TAKING a bath in the sea would be all right if you had a place to hang your soap dish.

REGULAR bath rooms are better. Oceans aren't equipped with modern conveniences.

THERE are no faucets where you can turn the water on and off.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association

AMONG the various "Anxious Mothers" who write me sometimes on very trivial questions is one which has impressed me as being very important.

This mother has a son who is eleven years old and who during his first two years of life was bothered with convulsions.

These were brought under control by a carefully guarded diet and by such medication as was given to her from time to time by her physicians whose services she cordially appreciated.

She states, however, that during the last few months he has been acting queer and her doctor tells her that he has a touch of St. Vitus's dance—otherwise known as chorea.

This is the history of many children who struggle along from infancy to adult life with frequent culmination in that convulsive condition that is too frequently spoken of as epilepsy.

In practically every one of these cases there exists a history of constipation.

The trouble is liable to begin shortly after birth; to result in convulsions as in this case; as the child grows older the convulsions may let up or be replaced by slight attacks of unconsciousness without convulsion—attacks that are usually spoken of as mere dizziness. This may go on for an indefinite period when the "nervousness" manifests itself in headaches or twitchings of the face or extremities, or in headaches or in mental depressions.

There may or may not be disturbance of the stomach, often the appetite is excessive.

All of these so-called nervous symptoms, convulsions, twitchings, dizziness, flashes of unconsciousness, headaches, are due to a poisoning of the system through the blood, a condition called toxemia. When it comes on suddenly and goes away as quickly it is called acute toxemia. When it hangs on or keeps hanging on, it is called chronic. It thus happens that the condition characterized by periodically recurring convulsions over a long period, is really a condition of chronic convulsive toxemia.

The logical treatment of this condition, like the treatment of every other condition, is to find and remove the cause. The cause in these cases is generally located in the stomach and intestines, especially in the intestines.

The proper diagnosis of the cases depends, therefore, on a proper examination of the organs within the abdominal cavity. A physician who is used to making these examinations can detect the position of the abdominal organs by external examination.

But whether he does or not, his examination should be followed by a careful X-ray study of the stomach and intestines. This examination will not only reveal the fact that the stomach and intestines are displaced, but various other facts connected with such displacement.

The X-ray plates should be taken and interpreted by some one familiar with their meaning.

The treatment should be addressed to correcting this underlying condition.

Hon. Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State during the administration of the late President Harding and President Coolidge, and president of the American Bar Association, at 8 o'clock this evening will make a special address to the audiences of WEAF and a chain of stations. As one of the outstanding authorities on American constitutional law and history, Mr. Hughes has appropriately taken "The Declaration of Independence" for the subject of this Independence Week talk.

The American Bar Association has chosen its president to deliver the fifth in a series of weekly addresses by prominent American citizens. These are being broadcast under its auspices and in cooperation with the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. from WEAF, New York, N. Y., WEEI, Boston, Mass., WFI, Philadelphia, Pa., WCAE, Pittsburgh, Pa., WGR, Buffalo, N. Y., and WWJ, Detroit, Mich. Hon. John W. Davis, Bishop Philip Cook of the Episcopal Diocese of Delaware, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, and Bishop Luther B. Wilson of New York City, have been the previous speakers in this noteworthy series.

Pauline Hammond Clark who has arranged many splendid concerts for the entertainment of listeners of Station WBZ, will present another program this evening consisting of solo and ensemble voice selections.

The Copley Club singers, under the direction of Mrs. Clark have filled many successful concert engagements and the programs arranged for the radio by Mrs. Clark are always received with considerable enthusiasm by the radio audience. With such an array of talent on the program which will be broadcast tonight, listeners are assured of hearing a concert of interest.

Additional entertainment will be furnished by Helen D. Porter who will be heard in a soprano recital accompanied by Mrs. T. H. Parkhill.

"Aida," whose spectacular musical beauty has charmed opera goers since its premiere in 1871, has been selected by the WEAF Grand Opera Company for their tabloid presentation at 10 P. M. tonight.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much."—Mrs. E. Gould, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

A recent canvass reports 98 out of every 100 women are benefited by

RADIO WORKS ON 3.8 METERS

Recognition of undergraduate research work in radio telegraphy was made at the one hundred and twenty-ninth commencement of Union College, when Edmund B. Redington, of Waverly, New York, a senior in the class of 1925, was awarded the Bailey Prize, given each year to the senior who contributes most to the advancement of the college. The prize is in the form of a silver loving cup.

The particular bit of research for which the prize was awarded consisted of making a radio transmitter oscillate on the extremely low wave length of 3.8 meters. This was accomplished using standard equipment in the form of two 50-watt tubes. Previously oscillators had been made to operate on four to five meters, but until the Union College Radio Club developed its low-wave length oscillator, it had been necessary to dispense with the tube sockets and also to remove the tube bases. It had also been deemed essential to nullify the internal tube capacity. The oscillator devised at Union College, however, used this capacity rather than an external condenser, and by using extremely short connections between the tube sockets they were able to obtain an unusually short oscillatory circuit, which, of course, determines the frequencies.

THE PINEAPPLE'S PLACE IN THE SUMMER MENU

IS there anything more enticingly fragrant than pineapple, and it's so healthful and delicious too, that we really should serve it oftener, especially now that it comes already prepared, either crushed or sliced, and quite as delicious as the fresh fruit itself.

I talked to you Saturday about pineapple fruit drinks and there are many other uses for this popular sunripened fruit—tempting ices, sundaes, pastries, fruit cocktails, salads, etc.

Here's a recipe for an unusual kind of a pineapple cake, one of those delicious up-side-down cakes:

RECIPE NO. 1352

PINEAPPLE CAKE.
½ cup fat.
1½ cups sugar.
1 egg.
2½ cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup cold water.
1 cup brown sugar.
Pineapple.

Cream fat, gradually adding sugar. Add egg, well beaten, sift flour, baking powder and salt and add to first mixture alternately with 1 cup cold water. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in iron spider and add brown sugar, stirring until smooth. Spread with layer of well drained crushed pineapples, pour batter over this and bake 45 minutes in moderate oven. Turn on a plate, cool thoroughly, spread with whipped cream, and serve.

And for something very easy and delicious try this pineapple meringue:

RECIPE NO. 1353

PINEAPPLE MERINGUE.

Heap slices of canned sliced pineapples with a meringue and brown quickly in hot oven. Serve with red jelly sauce.

For something unique in the salad line, there is a pineapple and pimento salad:

RECIPE NO. 1354

PINEAPPLE AND PIMENTO SALAD.
2 cups pineapple.
1 cup diced celery.
2 chopped pimentos.
Mayonnaise.
Lettuce.

Thoroughly drain pineapple. Add celery and pimentoes. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

And for something extra delicious, chicken salad Hawaiian style:

RECIPE NO. 1355

HAWAIIAN CHICKEN SALAD

Cut rings about 1 inch wide from green peppers. For each serving place a pepper ring on a slice of pineapple and heap the ring with chicken salad which has been well moistened with mayonnaise. Top with spoonful of mayonnaise.

For something very dainty and delicious in the way of desserts, there is—

RECIPE NO. 1356

PINEAPPLE CHARLOTTE.
2½ tablespoons gelatine.
¾ cup cold water.
1½ cups sugar.
Juice of 2 lemons.
2 cups pineapple.
Whites of 2 eggs.

Soak gelatine in cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Add sugar and the juice of lemons to the pineapple. Now add the dissolved gelatine and stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Put in a cold place and when the mixture begins to thicken, beat with an egg beater until light and frothy. Line a mold or serving dish with lady fingers or slices of sponge cake, turn in mixture, and set in cold place until firm. Serve with whipped cream or custard thickened with the 2 egg yolks.

Priscilla Price patterns, published each day on the magazine page, are reasonable and reliable. Use them and save time and cloth.

JOHN McCORMACK TO QUIT CONCERT STAGE AT 50

New York, June 30 (A.P.)—Collier's Weekly in its current issue will say that John McCormack, the tenor, has decided to retire from the concert stage when he is 50 years old. He is now 41.

"I'm going to retire definitely at 50," he is quoted as saying. "There will be no farewell tours or any of the usual mechanics of exit. I'll just be through. Of course, I may return to sing now and again, for charity, but never for my own profit.

"The steadfast loyalty of the public has led me to put my own limit on my career. I'd sooner have them saying 'Why did he quit?' than 'Why doesn't he quit?' when power begins to wane at fifty."

Independence Day Exercises to Be Put on Radio

Philadelphia, June 29 (A.P.)—Radio listeners throughout the country may hear the patriotic exercises to be conducted in historic Independence Hall on July 4, commemorating the 149th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Arrangements have been made with Station WIP to broadcast the complete program, beginning at 11 a. m., Eastern daylight time.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Buy New England goods—support New England industries—best in the world.

Stop! Look! Listen!

Curtailment of the Building Program at This Time Will Strike Serious Blow at New England Industries.

The slogan that warns to "Stop, Look and Listen" has come to have other uses than that at railroad crossings and it can do no better service now than to stare its message at the building trades workers who have voted a general strike in sympathy for striking laborers of the trades.

Curtailment of the building program at this time will strike a serious blow at New England's industrial convalescence. No more unfortunate circumstance can set in than such a complication to halt progress on the up-grade.

New England has pulled manfully on its boot-straps in the lifting of itself out of a period of depression, and family quarrels in industry should not be waged to the breaking point, with a resulting relapse back to the former level from where the struggle must necessarily be begun all over again—but with decidedly lessened enthusiasm for the battle.

The building program is one of the most important features of a community's progress. We have had our fill of housing shortage and high rents, for which the only remedy is more accommodation in the form of more buildings.

If a general strike of the building trades workers is allowed to take place, rents which have been slowly descending because of the increase in building, will halt in the downward trend—they may possibly take another upward mount.

Higher rents make higher cost of living, which in turn forces higher wages, necessitating advanced prices that the wage payers may be enabled to pay such higher wages.

All along the line the rate of living is inflated, with the purchasing power of the Dollar Bill reduced to considerably less than its normal value.

Strikes have become expensive and often a great loss to both sides and the public. There are few differences of opinion—even in the matter of money—that cannot be settled in a good, old-fashioned "sit down" where Common Sense is the principal arbiter.

Then, too, a strike is ever a threat and an implement of force, and no man of spirit is there who will not bristle under a threat. Yet the same man usually is always ready to treat half-way and fairly if the matter is laid before him in courteous fashion and the explanation is convincing.

The Building Trades' strike as voted by the artisans, is a far more serious matter than a quarrel between employe and employer. It is a kick at the sore leg of Greater Boston and New England, now convalescing.

The Building Tradesmen and Builders should tread carefully before taking a step that may rebound, not only upon themselves, but upon the great group composing the Boston and New England public.

America Should Be Careful to Keep Hands Off in China

This Chinese case is one where we should be careful to mind our own business. A sense of justice and a sense of expediency join to demand such a course.

China has been the plunder ground of so-called enlightened nations, her century-long ravishment by much smaller, but much better armed nations, the monumental robbery of modern times.

Docile, densely overpopulated, asking only to be permitted to live her own placid life according to Confucius, this vast, helpless power has been stung incessantly by greedy foreign powers demanding land or special privileges.

Her resources have been taken by European nations "by right of discovery!" She has been plundered and browbeaten and even forced to smoke opium, because it paid European powers to import it into China.

European powers as well as Japan have gone there, helped themselves to what they wanted and, if the plundered people resented it, these powers have replied with gunpowder.

These foreign nations have carved China as if she were a turkey.

How would you feel if China should come here, seize Boston, New York, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle and Portland, help herself to the natural resources of Alaska, extort priceless concessions for an ever-increasing flood of Chinese, which would put ordinary larceny to shame, and then on top of all this open Chinese courts in New York, Boston, New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland and serve notice that we should keep hands off all Chinese who violated the laws of the United States, saying she would try her own people herself in her own courts?

The answer to all this is what our ancestors said when they gave the Boston Tea Party!

America believes in self-government. That is the cornerstone of western hemisphere civilization. That is what Bunker Hill stands for. That is what the Monroe Doctrine means. The Chinese have just as much right to self-government as we have, as England has, as Germany has, as France has—as any other country in the world.

The justice of it is perfectly obvious and perfectly unanswerable.

We should not fall into the error of thinking that China's memory is as poor as her armed force. She has a most lively recollection of past kindnesses as well as past wrongs; she holds America high above all other nations in her regard.

From the old days when China gave such unique and such eloquent proof of her friendship for America by appointing Anson Burlingame of Massachusetts her Envoy Extraordinary to Europe, on to the days when China showered upon General Grant, in his world tour, the most distinguished honors ever given a foreign guest—on, down to this day, China has looked upon the United States as the one nation of the world upon whose disinterested friendship she could depend.

Let us treat China as we would have China treat us, if she were powerful and we were helpless.

Let us merely follow the Golden Rule.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

MANY a woman who loves her husband can't help thinking tentatively of how fascinating she would look in widow's weeds.

* * *

A boy in his first long trousers never feels half so conspicuous and irresistible, as he does twenty years later, when he reverts to adolescence, and appears in his first pair of golf-knickers.

Helen Rowland

An "understanding" is simply that point in a love-affair, where the man understands that the girl will marry him, if he can make up his mind to ask her.

* * *

The task of a modern girl's life is to keep her innocent mother away from the plays and movies, that no woman over thirty should see.

* * *

There are the "chase-me" eyes, the "help me" eyes, the "trust-me" eyes, and the "just-try-to-resist-me" eyes—and a man has about as much chance of escaping them all, as a jay-walker crossing Broadway.

* * *

A woman, like a picture-play, can carry too many sub-titles and "close-ups"—and leave nothing to a man's imagination. It is the book, the play and the love-affair with a "surprise ending" which keeps a man in his SEAT.

* * *

Wonders will never cease! Every now and then, you meet a man who believes that woman was made to be loved—and a girl who wants to marry and bring up a family!

A man may sometimes doubt that his company is welcome in a group of men—but he never feels for an instant that his coming will not brighten a girl's whole evening.

* * *

After it's all over, the average man can't tell whether he bought the set of books because he wanted them, because the feminine solicitor had a child to support, or because her eyes were the "appealing" kind.

* * *

It takes a clever woman to keep her husband from ever discovering what a string of "also-rans" he won out against.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

A good principle not rightly understood may prove as harmful as a bad. —Milton.

* * *

Fine sense and exalted sense are not half so useful as common sense; there are forty men of wit for one man of good sense. —Addison.

* * *

Youth is not like a new garment, which we can keep fresh and fair by wearing sparingly. Youth, while we have it, we must wear daily, and it will fast wear away. —John Foster.

* * *

It must be an industrious youth that provides against age; and he that fools away the one must either beg or starve in the other. —L'Estrange.

No action is commendable which is not voluntary. —Hughes.

All of us who are worth anything spend our manhood in unlearning the follies or expiating the mistakes of our youth. —Shelby.

* * *

Young men look rather to the past age than the present, and therefore the future may have some hope of them. —Swift.

* * *

The only true zeal is that which is guided by a good light in the head and that which consists of good and innocent affections in the heart. —Sprat.

* * *

Though our passage through this world be rough and troublesome, yet the trouble will be but short, and the rest and contentment of the end will be an ample recompense. —Atterbury.

* * *

As no single man is born with a right of controlling the opinions of all the rest, so the world has no title to demand the whole time of any particular person. —Pope.

* * *

Genius of the highest kind implies an unusual intensity of the modifying power. —Coleridge.

Pleads for Brothers

Helping Hand Editor:

Would you please try and find a place in the country where my two brothers could go for a vacation. One is 11 and the other 9. They are good strong boys and could help around a farm. There are eight children and we won't be able to even go for a car ride. Papa got hurt and mamma is very nervous.

HELEN.

Has No Money

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has been out of work for over three months and I find it hard to get along with six children and no money. I would appreciate clothing for them, there are girls, nine, seven, five, three and two years of age, and boy, eleven. I can make over anything. Even food would be appreciated and I will be glad to get help, as we really need it.

MRS. A. G.

Mother of Nine

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the mother of nine children, boys 15 and 10, girls 14, 9, 7, 5, 3, 2 and baby 4 months old. My husband has been without work for seven months and only for the boy, fifteen, who makes six dollars a week I would be without a thing. The girls 7 and 5 are going to a health camp for two months, and they do so much need clothes. They haven't a thing fit to wear and they need shoes as they go barefoot. I have to wash the new baby's clothes at night for the next day. Please help me.

MRS. L. M. S.

Almost Discouraged

Helping Hand Editor:

I am about discouraged. My husband is at home sick and two of my children are just getting over the measles. The children are 6 and 4, who take shoes 8 and 9, baby 11 months old, shoes 2½. I wear size 38 or 40, husband 40 or 42. I have been without glasses for ten years and I can't see very good, but cannot afford to get any. I also need sheets and pillow slips to change the beds. I would appreciate anything in the food line.

MRS. R. S.

Other Needy Ones

Mrs. V. A. R. would like to find a place in the country to board her two children, boy, thirteen, and girl, nine. Can only pay five or six dollars for both.

Mr. E. D. B., whose husband is sickly and cannot earn much money, asks for clothing for boys, seven, four and two, and baby, eight months old. Husband needs a suit badly, size 42, and she needs a Summer dress, and shoes, 5. She would be so happy to receive a little help.

A widow, obliged to support herself, would appreciate large and small pieces of silk, velvets, ribbons, etc. Has talent for designing and fancy work and can sell what she makes out of these silk pieces.

F. F. R., war veteran and an experienced baker, out of work, would like to hear from someone interested in opening a bakery shop.

Mrs. M. D. asks for a small baby carriage or go-cart and clothes, size 44, shoes 4½ for herself, also for girl 4 and boy 5. Husband has been sick and out of work.

James S. D., 75 years old and an invalid for a good many years, writes he can play the violin and if some kind reader had one he could have, he thinks he could earn enough to pay his room rent and get a little something to eat.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

CAN you recall the barren bough, the chill, the clouds, the gloom; can you bring back the Winter now, when all the world's in blom? And can you see the sparkling gleams on meadows white with rime? How strange, how far away it seems, a dream grown dim with time! So faint and far those cares today that once grim shadows cast, so swiftly have they drawn away into the misty past! So far, so faint to all the brave who turn from Sorrow's ways to greet the sky's blue architrave where golden sunbeams blaze, have grown all paths they journeyed through that once were dark and sad, for hope can fashion life anew, and faith can make men glad. No more than Winter days gone by, than storm with fury spent, are fears and tears, if hearts are high that make life's steep ascent.

PRINTERS' INK A GOOD MEDICINE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"PRINTERS' INK is saving more lives than any other single agency employed by modern health-workers," says Edward A. Moree of the New York State Charities Aid Association.

Right for him!

Printers' ink is the essential liquor of democracy. Kings hate it. All the manipulators of privilege dread it. It is poison to the tyrant of the Old World and the boss of the New.

It is the "sine qua non" of liberty. Liberty to human souls is what light is to human bodies.

Where there is no liberty there is darkness. Where there is darkness there is disease.

It is printers' ink that has scared the food fakers. Only at a good round of printers' ink will the vile, carrion flock of unclean birds that fatten on human credulity and ignorance take flight, they that sell plaster of Paris for bread, carpenters' glue for candy, and God knows what vileness for fish, flesh and fowl.

Printers' ink has prevented more tuberculosis than all the doctors have cured. It has spread right ideas of sanitation, upset old, mildewed superstitions, opened windows, lured people outdoors, flooded fearsome brains with truth, and desparing hearts with hope.

It has built hospitals and supports them.

It has prevented epidemics, driven hush-mouth authorities to activity in remedial measures of cleansing. Cholera and smallpox were conquered by it; malaria and yellow fever flee before it.

It is all well-enough to give an individual Epsom salts or calomel, but what the public needs for what ails it is plenty of printers' ink.

There is some value in the medical profession, but also a deal of hocus-pocus, as there is in everything that becomes professionalized. The best part of the science of medicine is that part which can be told in plain language so that the common man can understand. Every newspaper ought to have its health department.

What people need to know is the truth about health, about food, and about simple living. The more truth they know the less drugs they will take, the less useless and harmful food they will eat, and the less they will run after religious cure-alls and crazy fads.

The newspaper is the health of the State.

"You may cure individuals of their ills in the privacy of the sickroom," says Mr. Moree, "but to cure the public of its ills you must get into the newspapers."

LONE CLOUD-TAPPER OF THE PACIFIC

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

OFF in the edge of the Pacific Ocean, a hundred and fifty miles from the coast of Lower California, rises the volcanic peak of Guadalupe, crowning a once green island that has been one of nature's cities of refuge for plant and animal life.

A sentence about this island, written by Laurence M. Huey, of the Natural History Museum of San Diego, which I have just read, makes as striking a picture as could be imagined of the birth of rain.

"In contrast with most of the other islands on the west coast of the peninsula, which are completely arid," says Mr. Huey, "Guadalupe's crest is lofty enough to tap the clouds, and as a result its summit was blest in bygone days with forests of cypress, oak, pine, and palm, as well as with many smaller shrubs and flowers."

I am not here concerned with the naturalists lamentations over the "utter ruination" that has befallen this sea-rimmed speck of land, at the hands first of fur sealers and then of hunters of the elephant seal, and finally of the breeders of goats; but it interests me as an object lesson in rain making.

It taps the clouds. The other islands in that corner of the world were never able to tap the clouds and accordingly they have been nothing but flat, arid deserts.

Did you ever stop to think that the mountains are the greatest of rain makers for the continents? It is not enough that the sun's radiation raises up enormous masses — millions of tons—of invisible vapor from the surface of the oceans, and gives it to the winds to be distributed over the continents.

It is only when the unseen vapor, born from the sea, condenses into thick clouds that rain is formed.

But condensation will not occur unless the vapor-charged air is cooled down below its dewpoint. And the readiest way for the air to be cooled is by expansion.

If it is caused to rise it necessarily expands, necessarily cools and necessarily has its invisible vapor turned into clouds, from which, if the supply is sufficient, the condensed vapor will fall in showers and sometimes in devastating floods of raindrops.

When moist air from the sea is forced to ascend by being wind-driven against the sloping sides of a mountain, expansion, condensation of vapor and the birth of rain are forced upon it.

Mountains "milk" the clouds and draw off their moisture in streams of rain so effectually that the great ranges of the Rockies and the Sierras keep nearly all the eastward-bound vapor supplied by the broad Pacific from crossing their summit line and so bestow it in fertilizing rains on the valleys and plains of the western coast-bordering States. It was these mountain-born rains that created the gold placers of California.

Of course there are other ways beside mountain climbing by which moist air may rise, and so yield up its vapor in rain. In the Summer time, over hot plains, meadows and harvest fields, columns of vapor-charged air rise because of their expansion by heat; and then are beheld the most majestic and sometimes the most intimidating spectacles that the blue sky ever displays.

They take the form of high-piled "thunder-heads," and vast bulbous domes of white cumulus clouds that amaze and fascinate every beholder.

The vast shafts that support the rounded summits are composed of invisible vapor, but far aloft, where they enter an atmospheric layer sufficiently cool to produce strong condensation, they spread into immense snow-white capitals, looking as hard, smooth and solid as though carved out of Parian marble. In such clouds thunderstorms are born.

Along sea shores, too, powerful condensation of atmospheric moisture into rain often occurs, though there be no mountains present. Still it remains true that the mountains are the greatest rain drawers.

But it is rare to find an isolated peak rising out of the sea, like Guadalupe, to present so striking an example of "cloud-tapping" and its effects on the earth's vitality.

ONCE-OVERS

WEEK-END VISITS AT YOUR FRIEND'S SUMMER CAMP SHOULD BE MADE ONLY WHEN YOU ARE SUFFICIENTLY URGED

Unless especially urged to do so do not "drop in" nor go to the Summer camp of a friend for a week-end visit.

People go to a Summer home for a rest and more often they have to work harder than in town and with greater inconveniences.

Many invite friends out of courtesy hoping they won't come.

That is plain speaking, but some are foolish enough to broadcast their invitations with this mental "Heaven spare us."

However, when vacation comes it is loafing time and those who have cottages should have the privilege of rest.

Anything which interferes with the yearly recreation period detracts from the joy of vacation.

If you are really wanted at the cottage of a friend your invitation will be so worded that you cannot mistake its sincerity.

Usually one has a few close friends who are welcome almost any time, but don't force yourself even upon intimate friends.
